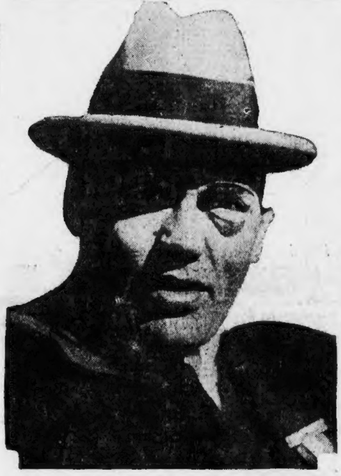
JACK DEMPSEY SPORTS FIRPO'S 'TRADEMARK'



JACK DEMPSEY AND HIS "SHINER"

Photo shows Champ's left optic as it looked after his battle with Firpo. If the eye could speak it would probably say: "That gent Firpo sure carries a mean sock in his right fist." You don't have to look hard to see that Jack's shiner is a "peach." It is the only trade-mark Firpo plastered on him. Jack wore it up Fifth avenue and the camera-man snapped it before Jack could block or duck.

SEVEN PERISH IN NEW JERSEY FIRE

By Universal Service

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 17.—Seven persons perished here when a swift early morning fire swept through a four-story brick tenement at Barrow and Grand streets.

Panic that seized the sixteen families in the burning house added to the casualties.

Bernard S. Feehan, a fireman, lost his life while carrying Ethel Morgan, a young negress, down a fire-escape, which collapsed under their weight. He struck on his head and died within a few minutes.

Official investigation failed to disclose the cause of the fire. The flames did little monetary damage. The estimated loss was $10,000.

FIGHT WOOD FIRE WEEK NEAR POWDER MILLS

The woodland blaze that has been burning in the powder mills woods near the Acton-Concord-Maynard-Sudbury line for a whole week, despite the fact that firemen from Concord Junction have been on hand every day, started up again with such vigor that an alarm was sounded to summon additional help. The dry condition makes it impossible to extinguish the fire, which has burned deep into the ground. After smouldering for a time it breaks out into flames in the dry undergrowth in a new spot. The burned area will soon cover 100 acres of wood and brush land unless rain comes.

FOUR GIRLS DEFEND POLICEMAN HILL

Four young women today took the stand in defence of Patrolman Lester D. Hill of Station 16, when his trial on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer was resumed before a trial board of three police captains at police headquarters.

The girls are Miss Minnie Allen, Miss "Dot" Langley, Miss Emily Bell and Miss Beatrice Rogers. Miss Allen and Miss Langley appeared in the case today for the first time.

Hill was arrested recently by fellow officers charged with being under the influence of liquor. He was taken from the apartment of Miss Emily Bell on Commonwealth avenue. Hill maintained he was sober and charged that the officers beat him when he appeared on the street, and then followed it up by going to Miss Bell's apartment, where he had gone for treatment.

Miss Allen and Miss Langley said they shared the apartment at No. 724 Commonwealth avenue with Miss Bell, Hill's sweetheart. It was in front of this apartment that Hill maintains he was beaten by four officers, and it was into that apartment the officers are said to have gone for Hill at an early hour in the morning.

Miss Allen and Miss Langley testified that they did not know anything about Hill or the police until the policemen went to the apartment and woke them all up by their loud noise.

Miss Bell declared that Hill had

COOLIDGE MEETS OWSLEY; ASKS LEGIONS DEMANDS

Washington, Sept. 17 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge today asked Alvin Owsley, National Commander of the American Legion, to submit in writing an outline of the Legion's program for bettering the condition of ex-service men.

Following a conference with the President at the White House, Owsley said care of the disabled and passage of a soldier bonus bill were the principal planks in the Legion's platform.

Owsley declined to discuss reports that he would be a candidate for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket.

EX-GOV. BARTLETT INJURED; NEAR DEATH IN AUTO CRASH

Washington, D. C., Sept. 17.—John H. Bartlett, Assistant Postmaster General, former Governor of New Hampshire and resident of Portsmouth, N. H., was injured today and miraculously escaped death when an auto in which he was riding was jammed between two moving street cars.

John H. Bartlett

The trolley cars were driving in opposite directions. Bartlett's car was crushed between them. It was smashed into bits.

Bartlett was rushed to an emergency hospital, where an examination revealed bruises and abrasions. He suffered from the shock of the collision, but the physicians say he has no serious injury.

The chauffeur of the big limousine and a guest who was riding with Bartlett are said to be under observation by the physicians.

Henry C. Burke of Nashua, N. H., an employe of the Shipping Board, was in the car with Bartlett. He was painfully, but not seriously, injured. Weldon Holcomb, colored, the chauffeur, is believed to have suffered internal injuries. The police are investigating to fix the cause of the accident.

ITALIAN PRINCESSES ARE SERIOUSLY ILL

Rome, Sept. 17, (A.P.)—Premier Mussolini today received a telegram from King Victor Emmanuel at Racconigi saying grave development in the condition of Princess Mafalda and Princess Giovanna had occurred, and that he was recalling Crown Prince Humbert to Racconigi. The Princesses, second and third daughters respectively of the King, have been reported suffering from an internal fever.

RATE RAISE TO COVER STATE

A sweeping increase of railroad rates throughout the state is threatened as the result of the new ticket tariffs filed today by the three railroads which serve the people of Massachusetts.

It had been reported last week that the roads would ask an increase only for commutation service within a [illegible]-mile radius of Boston. A tariff to that effect had already been filed by one of the roads.

EFFECTS ENTIRE STATE

The new tar[illegible] with the Public Utilities Commission of Massachusetts came as a surprise.

It was filed by the New Haven, the Boston & Maine and the Boston & Albany.

It affects the entire State.

It takes in the bulk of the service.

The roads ask a straight 20 per cent. increase in the price of the monthly season tickets (sixty rides) and the scholars' season tickets (forty-five rides, which excludes the Saturday and Sunday service) all over the State.

No increase is asked for the one-ride tickets or the three-months' family rate.

The service for which the 20 per cent. increase is asked constitutes the bulk of the traffic done.

B. & A. Loses Plea for Increased Switching Rates

Washington, Sept. 17 (I.N.S.).—The application of the Boston & Albany Railroad to increase from $5 to $15 the charge for switching ferry cars carrying less than 8,000 pounds in the Boston district, was denied today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

SERBIANS WARNED BY BULGARIANS

Sofia, Sept. 17. (I.N.S.)—Bulgaria today sent a second note to Belgrade, expressing surprise over Serbia's military concentrations on the Bulgarian frontier and asking their withdrawal.

The first note contained guarantees that Bulgarian irregulars (Comitadjis) would not make incursions upon Serbian soil.

MANAGER OF THE BRAVES SUSPENDED

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Manager Fred Mitchell of the Boston Braves today was indefinitely suspended by President Heydler of the National League for continued violation of the playing rules.

Fred Mitchell

Heydler said Mitchell had been ordered out of the game a number of times because of his persistence in arguing with umpires.

Suspension for the rest of the season was the sentence handed Cliff Heathcote, Chicago Cub outfielder, by President Heydler today. In yesterday's game with the Giants, Heathcote was called out by Umpire Moran while attempting to steal second.

Heathcote grabbed Moran by the shoulder in arguing over the play, and from the grandstand and bleachers volleys of pop bottles were directed at the umpire. Heydler was in the grandstand at the time.

FACING PROSECUTION, N. Y. PATENT ATTY. DROPS DEAD

New York, Sept. 17.—Eugene Elde, a patent lawyer, dropped dead in Criminal Courts Building today, when told that he would be prosecuted on charges of having withheld $1,500 from two clients.

He had just left the District Attorney's office, where the case was investigated. The complainants meeting him in the corridor, offered to withdraw the charges if he made restitution.

Exclaiming that he was ill and without money he gasped and fell dead.

CHIEF HAYES SAYS 'NOT GUILTY' IN BEVERLY SHOOTING CASE

Lawrence, Sept. 17 (I.N.S.).—John E. "Lightning Jack" Hayes, Beverly police chief, pleaded not guilty in Superior Court today to the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on Miss Evelyn Spinney and John H. Winston, both of Lynn. Bail was set at $500.

The shooting occurred the morning of June 18, when Hayes and a squad of patrolmen attempted to stop an automobile in North Beverly containing Miss Spinney, Winston and others. When his order to stop was not heeded he drew his revolver and fired. One shot entered Miss Spinney's back and another entered Winston's leg.

COP GRABS STOLEN AUTO; SOMERVILLE THIEVES FLEE

Patrolman John O'Leary of the Somerville police recovered, after a short chase, in which four auto thieves escaped, the automobile of Charles F. McKenna, No. 223 Washington street, Somerville, stolen earlier in the day. O'Leary while on duty in Lincoln Park recognized the registration number of the car. The men saw him approaching, abandoned the car, and fled.

DENY JURY TRIAL IN WILL FIGHT

The Supreme Court has sustained a decree of Judge Prest refusing a jury contest in the fight over the will of Neil McNeil, who died December 4, 1921, leaving an estate valued at $1,000,000. McNeil, in his will, created a trust and provided life incomes to twenty nieces, grandnieces and grandnephews. On the death of the last beneficiary the principal of the fund was to go to St. Francis Xavier's College of Antigonish, Nova Scotia. Just before he died McNeil deeded to St. Xavier's College $600,000 in real estate. McNeil willed that any beneficiary who directly or indirectly disputed his will should lose his or her share in the property.

MISSING WITNESS IN BOSTON

Search for a young woman nurse, said to have been an assistant to Dr. William M. Robb, Back Bay surgeon, featured developments in the famous Tyngsboro suitcase tragedy today.

This nurse, reported to have returned to Boston after disappearing at the same time as the physician, will be questioned by District Attorney Arthur K. Reading of Middlesex County, when found.

She is said to have been employed by Dr. Robb in Keene, N. H., to have followed him to Boston and to have taken an apartment in the Back Bay near the surgeon's office.

The authorities believe this woman may have cared for Mrs. Alice Wolschendorf, the suitcase victim, if the Bridgewater matron died as a result of an operation.

Two nurses sought by the authorities in connection with the case, have been eliminated it was learned today.

Both young women found by State Detectives Stokes and Ferrari convinced the officers that they had had no professional relations with Dr. Robb, although one knew him socially.

In the meantime Dr. Robb, confined to East Cambridge jail, was successful in obtaining bail today. Bonds and cash to the extent of $8000 were furnished by his brother, Frank Robb, who was accompanied by the surgeon's wife.

Mrs. Robb, modishly dressed in a blue gown and blue cape, talked with her husband for half an hour

BOWEN UNDER GUARD

It was stated that John P. Feeney had agreed to take Dr. Robb's case.

Word was received from Brockton City Hospital that William F. Bowen, who on Sunday took poison and slashed his throat in the rear of his East Bridgewater home, will live.

He is constantly guarded by a policeman to prevent any further attempt on his life, and also because he is to be held as a material witness. Bowen was the employer of Mrs. Wolschendorf, and attempted suicide because gossip connected him with the reason for the dead woman's visit to a physician.

It was learned today that Walter Walker, a night employee of the Three Levels garage in Springfield was the man who received Dr. Robb's automobile when he left it for storage.

Walker, who has since left this employment, said the surgeon was alone when he came to the garage and did not appear to be nervous.

"I did not register the doctor's car because I did not know it was necessary," said Walker. "I had not been there long enough to know the rules. I had him write his name on a tag which I attached to the car. He did not ask me to keep secret the fact that the car was in the garage."

Two of the above named principals faced each other late Sunday. Dr. Robb was hurried from the East Cambridge jail to the Brockton City Hospital when word was flashed that Bowen had been brought in "dying." The old man on the bed looked up with a face in which was written physical and mental anguish.

"Do you see anybody in the room you know?" he was asked.

He nodded, and mumbled, "Dr. Robb," pointing to the stylishly clad physician between two State police. The doctor was then hustled back to jail.

Had Bowen cut deeper with a razor he might have died instantly.

Mildred Wolschendorf

Harold Wolschendorf

He missed his jugular vein by a scant 1-16th of an inch.

The poison was pumped from his body.

Other developments which may come today in the kaleideoscopic drama of raw life and sordid death are these:

Requestioning of Lillian Murphy, Nantasket titian-haired beauty Dr. Robb was seen with in cabarets and exclusive dinner places. She was named in Dr. Robb's alibi; then upset it by denying what the physician alleged.

Search for the missing head of the suitcase victim.

Search for a camp Dr. Robb is said to have taken patients to for illegal operations.

LEFT NOTE TO WIFE

Investigation of the circumstances attending Dr. Robb's storing of his 1923 Stutz sport car in the Three Level Garage in Springfield on September 6, five days after Mrs. Wolschendorf's headless corpse was found in two suitcases in the Merrimack River.

Although not under arrest District Attorney Reading ordered that a policeman be kept on guard constantly at Bowen's bedside until he recovers, as he is considered a material witness for the State.

In Bowen's pocket the following note to his wife, hurriedly written, was found:

"Dear Martha—Both Mrs. W. and I are innocent of everything that has been said against us in this terrible case. If we had been guilty of any wrongdoing, I would have confessed to you before I died. All that has been said in the newspapers is lies.

"I can live no longer under this terrible strain. I have always respected you and my children. I have always taught the children to do no wrong. I can stand it no longer. For your sake, Martha, and for the sake of the rest of the family, children and gandchildren, it will be better when I am dead.

FEARED ARREST

"Please forgive me for this act. It is not rash. You know I am innocent, Martha, and when I am dead, all will soon be forgotten.. William."

Neighbors and relatives of Bowen say he hourly feared arrest in connection with the death of Mrs. Wolschendorf, and that announcement that the grand jury was to convene and the gossip and newspaper articles worried him.

Bowen, a real estate broker and father of six children, had always borne an exemplary reputation in East Bridgewater and Brockton. Mrs. Wolschendorf worked for him. He is sixty-two.

The suitcase victim was forty-four and the mother of four children. She had been separated from her husband, George Wolschendorf, proprietor of a picnic grove, and boathouse at Robbins Pond, for three years.

DEFENDS VICTIM

In a statement made to the Boston American at his bedside, Bowen reiterated his innocence and defended Mrs. Wolschendorf. He admitted that they were together a great deal, but claimed their relations were strictly of a business nature.

He said he decided to end his life, not for his own sake, but for that of his wife and children.

Bowen took a two-ounce phial of iodine and ether from the family medicine chest while the other members of the household were in other parts of the house. He sought a secluded spot behind a clump of bushes about 150 feet in the rear of his home, drained the phial and slashed his throat.

SHOUTS FOR HELP

Then he crawled on his hands and knees and as he was losing consciousness began to shout for help. His oldest son Warren and Ernest Jackson, a neighbor, heard his outcries and ran to his assistance. Chief of Police Russell of East Bridgewater was notified and sent him to Brockton Hospital.

"They've lied about me. They've lied about me," he repeated, "but I am innocent," he said to Chief Russell and then he swooned.

Antidotes were administered and surgeons closed the wound in his neck as District Attorney Reading and Dr. Robb and the State police rushed for the hospital from Cambridge.

Dr. Robb was brought into Bowen's presence and positively identified for legal purposes. Then District Attorney Reading questioned the patient concerning pertinint points of the case.

"I AM INNOCENT"

To a reporter of the Boston American, who interviewed him in the Brockton Hospital, Bowen told why he attempted to take his own life. Time and again, he interrupted his story to say "I am innocent."

His throat was burning from the poison he had taken. He was frequently forced to stop talking.

"I had nothing to with Mrs. Wolschendorf's supposed condition," Bowen said. "Had I been guilty of any such act, the authorities would not have had to seek me—I would have sought them and confessed the act.

"It wasn't because I had been mentioned as the 'man in the case.' It was because of my children, who don't know what it is all about, that I tried to kill myself.

"I am entirely innocent of the whole affair," he said, after resting a few minutes. "I cannot believe Mrs. Wolschendorf was in the condition the police and newspapers say.

"I was with her a great deal, that is true, but it was only in a business way. When our work was done she went to her home, and I went to mine.

DESERTED BY FRIENDS

"Sleep and I were strangers. Thoughts of the disgrace to my children haunted me day and night. It was too much for me. I got up at 1 o'clock in the morning. I kept thinking of the treachery of those whom I had supposed were my friends.

"None of them spoke favorably about me in this matter. It was too much.

"I got my razor, and took the poison from the medicine cabinet. You know what happened after that."

Bowen expressed deep respect and admiration for his wife. He spoke sincerely of her loyalty to him in the face of general accusation and scandal.

"She is one of the bravest women alive," he said earnestly. "She has suffered as much as I, but she has suffered silently. She is loyal to me now—even after I have attempted to kill myself. No woman's love and loyalty could be put to a greater test.

"Mrs. W. and I are innocent of all that has been said about us. I will fight for my life. When I have recovered, I will prove it. I shall clear both her memory and my name."

Mrs. Warren Bowen of East Bridgewater, wife of the real estate dealer's oldest son, denounced the implication that her father-in-law was responsible for the suitcase victim's alleged condition as absolutely untrue.

SURPRISED BY CHARGE

Surrounded by her three children, ranging in ages from two to five years, the young woman declared:

"Father was the best natured man in the world. He liked to play with the children and often took them for automobile rides so that they could keep out of mischief.

"Only fifteen minutes before father committed this rash act he had been joking with baby Robert.

"When father heard that he was the one who had been named as being responsible for the condition of poor Mrs. Wolschendorf, he was the most surprised man in the world. He had never dreamed of such a thing and passed it off as a joke.

"Why even mother, the one who you would suspect would be the first one to ge excited over the affair, passed it off with a smile. If she doubted her husband, she did not show it in any way.

"But the people outside the family did not pass it off with a laugh. They pointed their fingers at him as he passed along the street, they began questioning their neighbors, always insinuating that he was the man who had been going about with Mrs. Wolschendorf.

COULD NOT SLEEP

"Why even our most intimate friends in East Bridgewater have turned their heads against him. Instead of defending him at a time when a good word means a lot, they have turned on him like a dog.

"The notoriety that he received preyed upon his mind. He tried to conceal it from mother but it was impossible. Since the night his name was first mentioned he has not slept a wink. He has walked the floor crying out his innocence."

"After shaving, Sunday morning, he went out the back door and into the yard. He appeared happy as he shut the door behind him, although his face showed signs of dejection, due to the worry of the past three days.

"It seemed as though he had hardly had time enough to walk more than a hundred feet, when I heard a terrible scream. 'It's a lie,' I heard the voice say, and I knew that it was father.

"When mother saw what had happened she went into hysterics.

CALLS FOR HEAD

Mrs. Helen Mondoux, eldest daughter of Bowen, declared.

"They will have to show me the entire head and face of the woman whose body was found in the Merrimac River before I believe that it was Mrs. Wolschendorf.

"I have had long talks with Mrs. Wolschendorf. She was a fine upright woman and not one who would figure in such a case as this. She has told me several times that she has been suffering from pains about the heart and stomach and she also told me that she had considered visiting a physician.

"She complained about these pains a year and one-half ago and often since then.

"From conversations that I have had with her I know that it was impossible for her to bear any children.

"I saw her a week before she disappeared and there was nothing that would indicate that she was in a delicate condition.

"It was the gossiping of fair-weather friends that drove father to his rash act."

been to see her and that she said good-night and he left. She testified that he returned shortly after with blood running from his nose and with a discolored face. She said she used alcohol and cold towels to relieve him.

Miss Rogers, a comely 20-year-old miss from Philadelphia, said that she was visiting Miss Bell when Hill came that night. She said the four policemen threatened to break in the door if it was not opened.

Theodore Walker, night watchman for an automobile concern, testified that Hill went into his garage with a swollen face, and said, "They got me." He testified that there was no trace of liquor about Hill that night.

Frank Battle, proprietor of the Cummington Garage, testified that he met Hill that night and that there was no sign of liquor on his breath. William Warner, a machinist in the same garage, corroborated Beattie's testimony.

Hill then took the stand.

Mellon's Sound Idea
" 'Red' Keep Out"—Japan
Does Ford Kill Soul?
The Devil's Ink-Stand

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

ONE QUARTER OF THE United States income tax amounts to $340,000,000. Four quarters would be $1,360,000,000.

One billion three hundred and sixty millions, big as it sounds isn't so very big. It's only $13.60 for each American and it is less than two per cent. of the total income of the United States. Evidently the much talked about excess income taxes of fifty per cent. and higher are not collected extensively. They can't be collected, with tens of billions of securities that pay no income at all.

SECRETARY MELLON is wise in his suggestion that now, in peace, the excessively heavy taxes should be cut in two. To confiscate half of an income in peace is preposterous, and it discourages enterprise.

JAPAN DOESN'T INTEND to be made Bolshevik or "Red" if she can help it. The Russian government sent to Yokohama a ship named Lenin, carrying food and nurses, but "intended only for laborers." The Japanese government told the Russian commander that it didn't want the earthquake used for propaganda. The Lenin with its supplies was sent home after being furnished with coal and water.

THE ENGLISH CONFERENCE on Industrial Warfare, at Oxford, attacks Henry Ford's system as "soul killing." A Ford representative replied that men hired by Ford in England are paid seventy-five cents an hour and do not seem to have lost their souls.

English speakers, not free from industrial envy, perhaps, say workmen are ruined by "repetition processes," doing the same thing over and over. Such work makes the man into "Robots."

MUCH MODERN industry and efficiency are based on repetition processes, specialization in which the man stands still while his work slowly passes him—work and the job getting away from him, if he doesn't do it as fast as platform moves.

BUT THAT NEED not kill souls. The problem will be solved by variety in industry and by shortening the hours of intense, concentrated, repetitive labor.

Factory work in Winter for instance, with farm work in Summer, and plenty of time to rest and read, would protect the workers.

AND WHAT ABOUT the needle women who used to sew from dawn until dark, and the women in the New England mills that left home and got home in the darkness? Nobody worried much about them, or their 50 cents a day or less.

THE CASTLE OF WARTBERG is closed for lack of money to keep it in repair. The public can no longer see the room in which Luther translated the Bible, or the big black spot on the wall made by Luther when he threw the inkwell at the devil.

American Lutherans, perhaps, will contribute to repairing the old castle, and supply ink to freshen up the ink-stains which have doubtless been made fresh many a time in the past. It is a pity to let old stories die.

EXERCISE YOUR EYE muscles and avoid automobile accidents; that's the advice given by Dr. Needles. When you are in a car going forty miles an hour, you go about 58 feet every second. Unless your eye can roll from one side to the other at least twice in a second you can't keep track of both sides of the road and travel safely at that speed. Prize fighters, fliers, automobile drivers all require eye exercises to strengthen the eye muscles. At best, they get weak with old age. And a closed car requires better eyes than an open car.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT in Spain, with the representative of discontented soldiers ruling the King and the cabinet, is frankly a government to keep down discontent of radicalism and Bolsevism, or shoot it if it lifts its head. This Fascisimo movement has undoubtedly held in check revolutionary forces that would have torn the Italian and other governments to pieces. The only question is, how long the new kind of revolutionary rule by the middle class can last.

'HOBOES' WAY FROM WEST TO HARVARD

New York, Sept. 17.—Gilbert L. Parks, a graduate of Phillips University in Oklahoma, arrived in New York several days ago, after having "hoboed" his way from his home in Enid, Okla., for the purpose of taking a business course at Harvard University.

Parks, who is twenty years old, and holds a B. A. degree from Phillips University, started August 12, took an out-of-the-way course and walked less than 150 miles. More than that, he said, he started with 30 cents in his pocket, lived well, and had $1 when he reached this city.

$1,000 PIG LEAD THEFT CHARGE

Joseph J. Lizotte and Thomas A. Brennan of Lynn, both employed by the General Electric Company there, were arrested by General Electric special police charged with breaking and entering in the West Lynn plant and stealing 1,200 pounds of pig lead, valued $1,000. The men were loading their automobile with the lead, it is charged.

FLIM-FLAM VICTIM IN PUBLIC GARDEN

When two well-dressed and plausible foreigners approached Puros Gamijian in the Public Garden, and offered him a share in a lucrative and safe business proposition, he jumped at the chance. He and the two strangers placed equal sums of money in a handkerchief, which was tied up and handed to the enthusiastic Gamijian. Later he discovered the handkerchief contained only worthless paper.

OF THE FAVORED ONES

Betty Alden, society writer of the Boston American, through her personal charm and the refreshing veracity of her stories, has gained the complete confidence of society leaders and has given the quarter million readers of the American an unique style and an obviously exclusive touch that is rare in the newspaper world today. ELOPING BRIDE RETURNS TO BROOKLINE

MRS. WILLIAM JOHN SCRIPPS

RICH GIRL AND RICH YOUTH ELOPED

Miss Virginia Fredericka Stanley of Boston is the bride of William John Scripps, seventeen-year-old son of William Scripps of Detroit, it became known here today.

Miss Stanley, whose home is at No. 1100 Beacon street, Brookline, is one of the prettiest of the younger set of the city. The Scripps family is one of the best known in the Middle West.

It was a romantic elopement, kept secret because of the youth of both bride and groom. Virginia is eighteen, young Scripps seventeen. They eloped to Sandwich, Canada, September 1, were married there, and returned to Detroit immediately after the ceremony.

Unable to keep the marriage a secret after two weeks, the young bridegroom finally told his parents of it. The elopement was the culmination of an acquaintance which blossomed into friendship after a seporation of two years.

Scripps met his bride when she went to visit her aunt in Detroit, Mrs. D. J. Harris. It was a case of love at first sight, and their friends were inclined to call it puppy love.

But young Scripps continued his courtship by letter after Virginia went back to Brookline. He is a first year Yale man, and as often as he could during the last semester he made trips from New Haven to the home of Mrs. Stanley.

Not a single one of Virginia's relatives were taken into the secret of her marriage. The news came to them out of a clear sky.

This is the second secret wedding to take place in the Scripps family within a short time. A year ago last Christmas James Scripps, William's older brother, eloped to Windsor, Canada, and made Ruth Devoy his bride.

2 ARCTIC ESKIMOS TO DIE ON GALLOWS

Edmonton, Alberta, Sept. 17.—Two Eskimos will be hanged at the Royal Canadian Mounted Post at Horschul, on the shores of the Arctic Ocean, December 7, to put fear of the utterances of the British laws into the hearts of natives of that region, who are regarded as "bad" Eskimos.

The natives, Silk Omeik, sixteen-year-old Eskimo boy, and Eskimo Tatamagamo, a man of about forty, are to pay the death penalty for slaying two whites, several native men and women and a girl of four years.

NAVY AT FUNERAL OF JAMES R. CARTER

Funeral services for James Richard Carter, formerly president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and founder of Carter, Rice & Co., paper manufacturers, were held at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Newtonville, where Rev. John Goddard, the pastor, officiated, assisted by Rev. J. W. Spiers. Burial was at Forest Hills Cemetery.

The honorary pallbearers were William Bullivant, George H. Lowe, Henry H. Carter, Andrew G. Webster, George C. Warren, Ernest J. Rednier, Edward C. Burrage and John E. A. Hussey.

BROOKLINE PHONE EXCHANGE RENAMED

The name of Brookline, the richest "percapita" town in the world, will disappear from the local telephone directory, and "Regent" and "Aspin-"per capita' town in the world, will change designations in the automatic system.

WIFE WILL BE 'STAR' WITNESS

Millionaire Father Ready to Return to N. Y. State and Testify

W. S. Ward.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Testimony in the trial of Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire baker, George S. Ward, accused of the murder of Clarence S. Peters of Haverhill, Mass., was expected to begin late today.

The eleventh juror was picked after twelve men of a new venire of seventy-five talesmen had been challenged.

Ward's confession, written at the time of the killing, more than a year ago, but never signed, is to be introduced by the State. In it Ward alleges ePters came into possession of a story, supposed to be known only to the Ward family itself, and used the story to blackmail him.

Ward alleged he paid all he could pay. Peters, he charged, threatened him with a revolver. Ward says he was quicker on the draw than the alleged blackmailer and Peters was killed.

WIFE "STAR" WITNESS.

The conviction that Ward himself will not take the stand is growing.

Judge I. N. Mills, his chief counsel, it was believed, would rely upon Ward's beautiful wife as the star witness for her husband. Ward's father is expected to take the stand. The elder Ward has announced his eagerness to return to the state and appear as a witness if needed.

PRISONER CHEERFUL.

Mrs. Ward arrived early today and took a seat directly behind her husband. They chatted and Ward smiled frequently.

When the court clerk called the roll of the 75 talesmen of the new panel five were missing, three had died, four were discovered to be non-residents and were excused, one was too ill to be present and six failed to appear.

MINERS MEET TO SEAL PACT

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 17.—Anthracite coal miners representing the 155,000 union workers of the Pennsylvania hard coal fields, meet in convention here today to pass upon the proposed two-year agreement drafted by their officers and the operators in Harrisburg nine days ago. Delegates representing locals in each of the three districts of the United Mine Workers in the anthracite region are here for the convention.

Ratification of the terms of settlements by the convention was the final step necessary to bring about resumption of mining operations, suspended since August 31, when the previous contract expired and the men were ordered to quit work. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, expressed confidence the delegates would approve the settlement with little or no opposition. It was the general belief of both union officers and men that the workers would be back in the mines Wednesday.

$101,000 TO IMPROVE MASS. WATERWAYS

Washington, Sept. 17.—The war department today announced the following allotments by the engineer corps for river and harbor improvement work:

Plymouth Harbor, Massachusetts, $51,000.

Pollock Rip Channel, Massachusetts, $50,000.

FEDERAL MEN FIND DRUGS IN DRAWER

Continuing the crusade against the use and sale of narcotic drugs, federal narcotic agents Flynn and Voelker raided the home of Michael Danato at No. 115 Church street, Everett, and found five and a half ounces of cocaine and morphine hidden in a bureau drawer.

GUNS CURB OKLAHOMA KU KLUX

Troops in Full Control, Following Declaration of Martial Law for State

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 17. (I.N.S.).—With machine guns sweeping the streets of the capital from the State House steps and menacing the windows of the room where the Grand Jury was to meet today to investigate charges of illegal use of State employes by the State's chief executive, the State-wide martial law edict of Governor J. C. Walton went into its second day today.

Colonel William S. Key, military commander, is in charge of the zone in which the Capitol lies and heads the special court of inquiry which has supplanted the Grand Jury. He will direct the investigation of reported floggings which the Governor says have been as common in Oklahoma City as in Tulsa, where he first ordered martial law.

TROOPS IN FULL CONTROL.

Troops have taken complete charge here. Guards are patrolling the State House, visible evidence of the Governor's announced intention to prevent legislative interference with his martial law program. Legislative leaders were reported considering a session to formulate measures of protest against martial law extension.

The Governor denied that his extension of martial law was for the single purpose of preventing the Legislature meeting, but affirmed that it was "to prevent any kind of interference with my war on the Invisible Empire."

Duties of the police department and the sheriff's force have been taken over by the military. Troops also have been reported ordered to take control of Muskogee.

3,000 VOLUNTEERS READY.

Governor Walton announced today that if further troops were needed, he would open the guard to enlistments and that five thousand volunteers were ready to join.

E. K. Bixby, editor of the Muskogee Phoenix, today denied he had declared that Governor Walton was due for a flogging if he dared to visit Muskogee.

The editor's denial followed receipt of a letter from the Governor scoring the editor and his newspaper for alleged threatening statements.

12 DIE, 15 HURT, IN FOOD RIOTS

London, Sept. 17.—Twelve persons were killed and fifteen wounded during a demonstration against the high price of food at Sorau Brandenburg Province, when fighting occurred between the police and the demonstrators, says a Central News dispatch from Berlin today.

EX-SECRETARY TO GOV. GLYNN DIES

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Frank A. Tierney, one of the best known newspaper men in the country, died suddenly at the Albany Club here today. He was a native of Albany and for many years was a political writer on the Albany Times-Union, of which former Governor Martin H. Glynn is the owner. He was secretary to Mr. Glynn while Governor.

MOTHER OF WAR BABY WEDS

Kansas City, Sept. 17.—Miss Nancy Jordan, an English girl, was married here to Claude Heatherington Clarke, also of England, it became known today.

Miss Jordan met Clarke last November on a liner while on her way to America, with her young son to accept an invitation of Mrs. Frank Warren of Kansas City to make her home with her.

When Miss Jordan arrived in New York she was met by Mrs. Warren. Promises of Mrs. Warren that she could live with her here as her "guest" were not kept, Miss Jordan said, and within a week she was cast upon her own resources. She obtained a position and has been supporting herself and son.

Mrs. Warren obtained a divorce from Frank Warren soon after he was released from the army. It was known at the time that he had been corresponding with Miss Jordan and that he was the father of her "war baby," but her name was not mentioned in the divorce proceedings.

After coming to America Mr. Clarke lost track of the young Englishwoman. Last week, while in a restaurant in Chicago, he read in a newspaper that Miss Jordan was preparing to return to England. He immediately located the girl by long distance telephone and left Chicago.

DEAD BABY IN SOUTH MAY BE LILLIAN M'KENZIE

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 17.—A description of Lillian McKenzie, missing New York baby, received by telegraph today, tallies in every particular with the body of a four-months-old girl, who died from malnutrition Saturday night in a Morgantown hospital, according to police officials.

The baby was left at the hospital Saturday by a couple who were traveling in an automobile home, bearing a New York license plate.

SAVE 50 BABIES, 30 ADULTS; 7 FIREMEN HURT IN HOSPITAL

Syracuse, Sept. 17 (I.N.S.)—Roaring flames cut off escape for nearly 300 patients on the upper floor of the Crouse Irving Hospital today, necessitating rescue by ladder and nets of eighty patients, fifty babies and thirty adults.

The fire, starting from explosion in the X-ray room on the second floor, quickly spread.

Panic was narrowly averted by the heroic efforts of nurses and interns, who calmed the excited patients.

Seven firemen were hurt and ten overcome by fumes and smoke.

ONE-CENT DROP IN GASOLINE

New York Sept. 17.—The tank wagogn price of gasoline today was reduced 1 cent a allon in New Enland and eight Atlantic seaboard States by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Gulf Refining Company.

The new price ranges from 18 cents in Washington to 21 cents in Virginia where there is a State tax of 3 cents a gallon.

The Jenney Manufacturing Co. soon followed suit, reducing tank wagon and retail prices 1 cent a gallon to 18½ and 21 cents respectively.

The Texas Company announced it would meet the reduction. The territory in which the cut was announced by the Standard of New Jersey included New Jersey, North and South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. In addition to the New England States, the Gulf Refining Company reduced the price in New York and New Jersey.

The retail price of gasoline at Gulf Filling Stations and the Atlantic Oil Company Stations in Boston dropped today to 21 cents a gallon, a reduction of 1 cent below yesterday's price. Other gasoline companies stood pat today on yesterday's price—22 cents.

The Night Has a Thousand Eyes

As evening approaches, the lamps of the sky are lighted as one by one the stars twinkle into sight. All around us near at hand the electric lamps of home are lighted.

In the living-room father reads his evening paper and mother scans her favorite magazines. Childish heads are bent over school-books or over one of the exciting tales which bring sparkles to the eye and a flush to the cheek.

In the boudoir or bedroom a rosy shaded lamp illumines the dressing of the girl so happily preparing for dance or theatre.

So when night comes, lamps take their place in family life, which might be said to cluster around them.

On our fourth floor you will find a collection of desirable lamps electrically equipped—floor lamps to stand behind a wing chair or beside the bridge table, twin lamps for either end of the library table, small lamps for desk or boudoir, big comfy lamps for the living-room table. Some are made of pottery exquisitely glazed, with indescribably changing hues; others are of Chinese porcelain; all are attractive, wired for electricity and with matching shades.

ACCUSE WOMAN OF MURDER OF YEAR AGO

Atlantic City, Sept. 17.—Mrs. May MacNeill of this city was under arrest today charged with the murder of Mrs. Hannah Seeley of Egg Harbor a year ago.

Mrs. Seeley's body, with the throat cut, was discovered on the front porch of her home by neighbors who had been called by Mrs. MacNeill, who had asked medical aid for injuries to her head she alleged had been inflicted by Mrs. Seeley.

State troopers and detectives under former Prosecutor E. A. Gaskill pronounced it a case of suicide. Prosecutor Louis Repetto successor to Gaskill, caused a new investigation to be instituted.

It is alleged a quarrel over property belonging to Mrs. Seeley, who had adopted the MacNeill woman, brought the attack. Two butcher knives, both bloodstained, were found beside the body.

Manchester, N. H.—Stanislau Oszly, 50, died as a result of being hit by an automobile driven by James M. Kelly of this city.

"Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Boston for week ending Saturday, Sept. 15th, on shipments sold out, ranged from 8.50 cents to 20.50 cents per pound and averaged 15.59 cents per pound."—Advt.

SPAIN TO START NEW DRIVE IN MOROCCO

Port Vendres, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Sept. 17 (A.P.).—The military directorate has decided to expel thirty one of Spain's leading politicians, including former Premier Sanchez Guerra, it is learned from advices coming over the border.

Madrid, Sept. 17 (I. N. S.).—Dictatorial powers were conferred upon the military directory today by dissolution of the Cortes.

General Primo Rivera announced a vigorous new campaign would be started at once to put down the rebellion of Riff tribesmen in Morocco.

The new government held its first discussion with a foreign power today when A. P. Moore, United States Ambassador, conferred with Foreign Minister Espanosa on the subject of prolonging the Spanish-American commercial treaty, which expires November 3. Spain is seeking tariff concessions for fruits, olive oil and licorice exported to America.

General Primo Rivera outlined the directory's plans as follows:

"We will send General Aizpuras to Morocco to settle the problem there. We will respect the treaties with Raisuli, but will not make a treaty with Abdel Krim, the rebel chieftain. We intend to launch a new offensive in the Melilla zone.

"We will form a national guard of 450,000 men to preserve order."

It is understood the new campaign in Morocco will open in about a week and that 150,000 men will be involved.

Mrs. Amory Notable Addition to 'Who's News on the North Shore'

By BETTY ALDEN

ONE of the smartest matrons of the Beverly Farms colony is Mrs. Francis I. Amory—a a notable addition for our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

Mrs. Amory—she was formerly Miss Margaret Perin of Washington—is of the distinct brunette type. Her dark hair is done in the simplest manner, and her slim figure is always gowned with the utmost "chic."

This Summer the Amorys have the John S. Curtis estate in the Farms known as "Yellow House." As both master and mistress are hospitable folk, many jolly gatherings are held there for the younger married set along the Shore. The former Miss Perin is witty and quite a brilliant conversationalist. During one of her many trips abroad she was presented at the Court of St. James, a distinction which quite a number of Boston women enjoyed the past season.

It was less than three years ago that Mr. Amory, member of the Harvard '17 class, took as his bride the lovely Washington miss. The young couple were married very quietly in New York at St. Patrick's Cathedral, just one day before the death of the groom's father, Francis I. Amory of Boston. Following their marriage the young couple came to Boston to make their home, where their town house is at No. 73 Beacon street. They have a son, Francis I., Jr., who, I believe, has reached the enormous age of one year.

MRS. FRANCIS I. AMORY

Mrs. Amory (Margaret Perin) is a prominent member of the Beverly Farms colony.

ONE of the most graceful craft to sail the waters off Manchester-by-the-Sea is the "Spalpeen," owned by the Keith McLeods of Wenham. Their place there is known as "Seven Pines."

THE last of a very successful series of dances held in the Ipswich Town Hall has been given. These affairs, held in aid of the Benjamin Stickney Cable Memorial Hospital, were in charge of Miss Consuelo Bates. The latter, a prominent member of the New York colony at Ipswich, is very much interested in dancing and last year studied in Paris.

IT seems that that very clever young equestrienne, Miss Theodora Ayer, is not to be presented this season, after all, as many thought. Instead, she and a friend, Miss Edith Woodward, will spend a Winter travelling abroad. Miss Woodward, who paid a visit to the North Shore earlier in the season, is the daughter of the William Woodwards of New York and Newport, and a niece of Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames of Boston.

Miss Ayer, who is always among the exhibitors at any horse show held at Myopia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Ayer. Their estate at Hamilton is called "Juniper Ridge" and during the season no end of jolly parties are held there for the younger set along the Shore. Last Winter the Ayers occupied for the first time their new town house on Dartmouth street, one of the most magnificent mansions in Boston.

BAZAAR WILL AID MORGAN MEMORIAL

Elaborate arrangements are now under way for the bazaar of the Women's Auxiliary of the Morgan Memorial, to be held in Horticultural Hall on October 25. A meeting of the committee, headed by Mrs. George E. Frost of Dorchester, has been called for this Friday at the Morgan Memorial Church of All Nations.

FULLER HOST TO 700 PACKARD EMPLOYES

Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller entertained about 700 employes of his various Packard branches at Rye Beach Saturday. It was the first Packard outing in three years.

At the sports Lieutenant-Governor Fuller acted as starter, C. A. Robinson, D. O. Earle, T. H. Simmons, E. A. Thrasher, R. P. Holmes and T. E. Davis were judges, C. A. Robinson referee, and R. S. Neaves timekeeper.

There was a baseball game between the Boston Sales and the Boston Shops, resulting in a 9 to 6 victory for the latter. Lieut. Gov. Fuller ,played second base for the Sales. He hit a triple to left field, knocking in two runs.

On the Abenaqui golf course a tournament was run off under the direction of J. B. MacRobert. Charles Wyman won the driving contest with a drive of 260 yards. Ben Cook of Boston and F. W. Stockbridge of Worcester tied for low net with 84 each.

B. G. Preston won the men's tennis singles and Miss Bliss ladies' singles.

After the sports a clam bake was served. Following the bake winners in the sporting program were presented with silver loving cups by Mr. Fuller.

The committee consisted of Lieut. Go. Fuler, honorary chairman; R. A. Metler, chairman; I. H. Boles, chairman of refreshments; N. F. Neer, chairman of publicity and entertainment; W. P. Naylor, chairman of sports; J. B. MacRobert, chairman of golf and tennis; E. L. Tobin, chairman of transportation, and Charles D. Whidden.

In the sweepstakes tournament on Abenaqui links in connection with the outing, Dan Harris held the low net with 59. "Bill" Spargo made the best gross with an 83 from scratch.

A feature was a reproduction of the Dempsey-Firpo fight, "blow for blow," by Bill Spargo, (Dempsey) and Bill Hobbs, (Firpo). These gentlemen clothed in most unsuitable ring attire demonstrated the blows used in the famous bout.

$8,000,000 Mark Passed in Jap Relief Drive

Washington, Sept. 17.—The eight million dollar mark has been passed by the American Red Cross fund for Japanese relief. Contributions which were expected to be received at special church services will add thousands of dollars to this total, it is believed.

This will make the fund more than $3,000,000 in excess of the minimum of $5,000,000 originally set by Red Cross officials.

JAPANESE BANK AIDS INSURANCE COMPANY

Tokio, Via Osaka, Sept 17 (AP)—The Bank of Japan has agreed to lend 50,000,000 yen ($25,000,000) to the Japanese insurance companies for payments on policies for thousands killed during the recent earthquakes and fires in Japan, according to an announcement after a meeting of Tsunita Yano, president of the First Life Insurance Company, representing forty-seven companies and Mr. Inouye, finance minister and Mrs. Ichiki, president of the Bank of Japan.

SERBS CHARGE ITALY SEIZES FIUME

London, Sept. 17, (I.N.S.)—Jugo Slavs claim Italy has assumed military control of Fiume said a Sussak despatch to the Daily Express today.

Administration of Fiume is now in dispute between Italy and Jugo-Slavia.

According to the Daily Express correspondent, there are 20,000 Italian troops in the Triest Sector and many others massed near Fiume.

Premier Mussolini of Italy, is accused of forcing strict control over Gen. Giradino of the Italian army who was appointed Military Governor after the local Serbian Government of Fiume resigned.

ORGANIZED TO FIGHT KLAN IN PORTLAND

Portland, Me., Sept. 17.—More than three hundred former service men have organized the United Veterans of the Armies and Navies of the United States, under the leadership of Edward J. Quinn, to combat the Ku Klux Klan in its political activities in this city.

Herbert J. Welch and John J. Maloney, leaders in the new organization, assailed Governor Baxter of this State for his attitude toward the Klan in Maine, declaring him to be "weak kneed."

MAYOR CHAPLIN ASSAILED.

Mayor Carroll Chaplin of this city was assailed for permitting the K. K. K. to use City Hall for a mass meeting, at which reputable Catholic citizens were attacked by the Ku Klux Klan speakers.

Resolutions were adopted denouncing the falsehoods uttered against many Portland residents, who have fought loyally for their country in past wars. They also attacked the efforts by the Klan to stir up animosity among races and sexes. The resolutions also counseled forbidding use of City Hall for the ill advised campaign now being conducted by the K. K. K.

It is planned by the officers of the new organization tohold a mass meeting in City Hall.

James T. Williams, editor of the Boston Transcript, and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, will be invited to address the mass meeting.

F. Eugene Farnsworth, who has been active in Klan work in Maine, was bitterly assailed by all speakers at the meeting. The officers of the new organization announced that everyone who is a real American is entitled to membership.

WILL DEFEND RIGHTS.

In his address Commander Quinn said in part:

"We are not out to fight the Klan, but to defend our rights as red blooded Americans. We will maintain law and order and we will assist the civil officials in every way. We are ready any time, however, to defend our rights, regardless of any tribe that comes here."

GERMAN AMBASSADOR BACK IN WASHINGTON

Frau Wiederfeldt
International Newsreel

Washington, Sept.: 17.—The German Ambassador to the United States, Otto L. Wiederfeldt, his wife and their son Herman Joachim, have returned to this country after a short vacation in Germany, and the Ambassador has entered again upon his official duties. He is the first envoy Germany sent to this country since the war, succeeding after several years interim Count Von Bernstorff of whom little has been heard lately.

'RED' BROTHERS GREET PRINCE OF WALES

High River, Alta., Sept. 17.—Cowboys, ranchers and townspeople of the High River district accorded the Prince of Wales (Lord Renfrew) a royal welcome when his special train arrived.

For the first time since his arrival in Canada, the Prince walked from the depot platform to the main street of the town unaccompanied by either secret service men or police.

"They are my neighbors, why should they not greet me?" asked the royal rancher of his secretary, and the police officers were compelled to watch the proceedings of welcoming the owner of "E. P. Ranch" from the window of their private car.

David Bear's Paw and Red Cloud, minor chiefs of the Stoney Indians from the Morley reservation, were waiting to greet him. When the Prince drew abreast of them, Bear's Paw stood erect and in perfect English said "greetings, Chief Morning Star—your brothers of the Stonies salute you."

The Prince gravely proffered his hand and said: "Morning Star is proud to greet his brothers."

CAR HITS 3 DRUNKEN MEN; CLUB RAIDED

Methuen, Sept. 17—Eight gallons of "moonshine" liquor and a quantity of beer were seized by Methuen police in a raid on the Lawrence Cricket Club on the Lowell-Lawrence highway. The raid followed an accident when three men who left the club in an intoxicated condition were struck by a Lowell bound trolley car. All three are on the dangerous list in the Lawrence Hospital.

COW BADLY GORES PROVIDENCE WOMAN

Providence, R. I., Sept. 17.—Mary Samia, fifty-three years old, while walking along a lane off Wales street, was gored in the stomach by an angry cow. A wound ten inches long was inflicted. The woman was taken to the hospital where it is said her condition is serious.

B. U. DRIVE HAS MILLION GOAL

Boston University today planned a drive for a million dollars. That amount will be sought of the public of Greater Boston. It will probably be quickly forthcoming, as it is the first time in the history of the famous university that contributions have ever been sought. B. U. is fifty years old. The drive will be known as the fiftieth anniversary fund. It will start on November 2 and end on November 10. Headquarters have been opened at No. 33 Federal street.

STRANGE CURRENT CAUSED WRECK

Santa Barbara, Cal., Sept. 17.—Strange currents flowing around Point Honda, where seven naval destroyers were stranded the night of September 8, still are talked of among crews sailing out of Santa Barbara daily.

Captain Joseph Nocetti, commander of the fisherman North America, put in the harbor here after a week's cruise. It is his conviction that the sea was playing diabolical tricks the night of the naval disaster.

"That current along Honda was not where it was the day before," he said. "Something happened to it. One day it went one way, another day the next. The compass is no good when current acts like that. All ships that night went straight to the rocks when compass pointed to open sea."

USE SCRAPPED SHIPS IN REBUILDING JAPAN

Osaka, Sept. 17 (A.P.)—The Navy Department has been too busily engaged in relief work to heed a concrete warship scrapping order, as provided under the Washington Treaty limiting armaments. It is believed the navy now will speed the scrapping work and use the scrapped ships as material for reconstruction work in Tokio.

'SUGAR BABIES' PREFERRED TO 'KIDS,' SAYS GIRL WHO SHOT ONE

FRESH LADS NOT WANTED NOWADAYS

Gertrude Gilheeney, in House of Correction, Declares She Still Loves Husband

Providence, Sept. 17.—Girls don't want the fresh young roosters who think they "Knock 'em dead." No sir. They want the middle-aged, heavy sugar babies. The men who have sense and stability, who are but mildly threatening.

The young woman who shot one down because, she alleges, he was "leading a double life" says so.

She is Gertrude Gilheeney, the bride who shot Ernest R. Smith, wealthy coal dealer, three weeks back because, she says, he tried to resume a relationship that has been broken off." They had once been "sweeties," Gertie says.

She is held in $2,000 bail for shooting to kill.

BARRED FRESH YOUTHS.

To the Boston American the once dazzling, fashionable blonde, today talked in the House of Correction in Cranston. Once she wore silks and satins. Today she was garbed in a prison wrapper, carpet slippers and socks of cotton in which a jagged tear bared the flesh of her still shapely right limb. Smith is still confined to a Providence hospital with a bullet wound.

Said Gertie:

"I first took up with Smith because I never cared for the fresh young fellows we girls meet. A well-educated man, of middle age, and gentlemanly, seemed like a good enough friend, and friendship naturally followed an introduction to him.

HAPPILY MARRIED.

"A long time after I forgot about him, he again came to life by pressing me for a date. Well, I wasn't satisfied with happiness. I always was looking for something more in life than life has to offer. Naturally it was my fate to land in trouble. That date led to this scrape.

"I am happily married. My husband, Leroy Gilheeney, wouldn't believe me bad if he saw me acting wild with his own eyes. I love him just as much. There are a lot of hypocrites in the world, but my hubby is not one of them. He's true blue.

"My home folks are not the same. They could provide me with bail but haven't done so yet. Sometimes I used to find it convenient as a kid to take a little vacation from home just to get away from the turmoil that seems to be in some homes.

"The night I was arrested, my mother said, 'Oh my.' The neighbors will all hear this commotion. There are five men who look like detectives outside and everybody will see them.' That's sympathy for you."

MINNEAPOLIS GETS LLOYD GEORGE FIRST

Minneapolis, Sept. 17.—David Lloyd George, former Premier of Great Britain, will make his first public appearance in the United States in Minneapolis on October 15.

Sir Alfred Cope, personal secretary to the former Premier, arrived here yesterday to arrange for the visit of the British statesman. The former Premier will arrive in New York city October 5. There will be no public appearance in New York city, and the visitor will go direct to Montreal, where he will speak October 6. He will come to Minneapolis from Winnipeg. From Minneapolis he will go to Chicago, and thence to Springfield, Ill.

SAFE LOOTERS AT WORK

SCENE OF TWO ROBBERIES ON WASHINGTON STREET

Something in the nature of the irony of Fate enters into the week-end robbery in the stores of the Liggett Drug Co., and of Truly Warner which adjoin on Washington street, in the downtown business section. Cracksmen forced rear doors and windows and leisurely demolished the safes, obtaining $3,000. Last June the same stores were entered in the same manner and virtually the same amounts were stolen. Police Station No. 2 is not far from the scene.

BURGLARS LOOT 4 DOWNTOWN STORES AGAIN

Four stores in the downtown business section were entered by burglars and $3,425 was stolen from the safes of two of the places.

The robberies were all in the vicinity of City Hall avenue police station, and the police suspect the same gang that has recently cleaned up considerable booty by breaking into stores in the same neighborhood. Although extra details of police were put on, the safe breakers were able to work unmolested.

A "REPEAT" ROBBERY

The stores entered and the amounts stolen are: Liggett's drug store, No. 301 Washington street, $1400; Truly Warner's Hat store, No. 305 Washington street, where a safe was moved from street view and opened, $2,000; Coes & Young shoe store, No. 20 School street, $25 taken from the cash register, and the Waterman Fountain Pen Company, School street.

At the Waterman store they tried to force a safe, gave it up and stole several hundred dollars worth of fountain pens.

Liggett's and Warner's were broken into in a similar way last June when an equal amount was stolen. Warner's then was starting its straw hat rush. Saturday night was the last day of the straw hat season, and a day of profitable business. The manager of the Warner store had deposited $4,000, but left the $2,000, which the burglars took.

FRIGHTENED AWAY

The store of Samuel Beckhard, No. 297 Washington street, was broken into but nothing was taken.

In Warner's store the police found a set of burglar tools, including a ten-pound hammer, small crow bars, 20 feet of rope with hooks attached, drills and other implements.

FIRST EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS REACH U. S.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 17 (A. P.)—America opened her doors today to the first of the victims of the Japanese earthquake when 122 pinched-faced survivors, carrying all their worldly possessions in little bundles, disembarked from the mercy ship President Jefferson. The Jefferson was ten days out from Yokohama and the first vessel with earthquake victims to reach an American shore. Ambulances met the vessel and hurried the six seriously injured to hospitals and taxicabs and private cars carried others to hotels or homes in Seattle.

Reopen Hospital Buildings

Many prominent persons are expected to be present at the reopening of the renovated hospital buildings of the Woman's Charity Club Hospital and the Massachusetts Women's Hospital at No. 53 Parker Hill avenue, Wednesday, September 19, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Peeling the Skin Is Better Than Bleaching
Use Ordinary Mercolized Wax

Ever since the discovery that ordinary mercolized wax would absorb and remove a discolored or blemished complexion its use by ladies as a substitute for bleaching creams has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its beneficent cleansing, clearing and preservative action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying high prices for "special bleach" from beauty specialists soon recognize that mercolized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all druggists, who have it in original, one-ounce package. The favorite way of using is to apply it like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

"Golfer" on Roof Gives Neighbors Thrill of Fear

Residents near No. 7 Clarendon street nearly experienced heart failure when Victor Hickey appeared on the roof of that house and played golf with an umbrella. The East Dedham street station police, who booked Victor as drunk, are still wondering what kept him from wandering off the course into the thin air.

"I'm the English golf champion," he told his rescuers. "All I need is a little practice." Victor's golf togs consisted of a hardboiled shirt, the lower part of a dress suit and patent leather shoes.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE ON FLIGHT TEST TODAY

BRIDE AND HER HUSBAND FOUND DEAD FROM GAS

Springfield, Sept. 17.—Carl Bineld, twenty-eight years old, No. 215 William street, and Lena, thirty-three years old, his bride of two weeks were found dead in their home from asphyxiation by neighbors who smelled gas and forced an entrance.

Bineld was found dead on the kitchen floor. His wife's body was in her bed. Fifty dollars in currency and $2.50 in gold were found under the woman's pillow.

According to the medical authorities, the couple had been dead several hours when their bodies were discovered.

Investigation revealed a leak in a rubber tube connecting a small gas stove with a wall bracket. All windows and doors in the house were tightly closed. Authorities believe the double tragedy was accidental.

OIL HEATING
is a proved success

THERE is no question of the utility and practicability of oil-heating for homes and buildings. Thousands of oil heating devices have been installed during the past five years.

They are easily put in at a moderate cost, and, with automatic heat control, the whole house can be kept at any degree of temperature wished for. And beyond that, there is an absolute freedom from dust, litter and ashes.

SOCONY FURNACE OIL is the ideal fuel for any central heating oil device. It can be stored in quantities, the supply is easily replenished, and the cost, in view of its convenience and combustion efficiency, is moderate.

SOUSA PLAYS WORK OF HUB COMPOSER

Sousa!

A magic word. Your feet start moving at the mere mention of it. There are those who prefer the cloying sweetness of the symphony. There are those who fall for the barbaric jazz. But the middle ground has a huge following—the music of the brass.

It is the 31st annual tour of John Philip Sousa that Boston witnessed and heard yesterday afternoon and evening at Symphony Hall.

HUB COMPOSER HONORED.

Added interest attached to this year's visit by the fact that the encore at both performances is from the pen of a Boston composer, Alexander Steinert, Jr., entitled "Rameses."

The large audience in the afternoon heard Orem's rhapsody "The Indian"; a cornet solo, "Cleopatra," by John Dolan; Sousa's "At the King's Court," which series of musical portraits included "Her Ladyship; the Countess;" "Her Grace, the Duchess" and "Her Majesty, the Queen." Miss Marjorie Moody, soprano, sang Meyerbeer's "Shadow Song." This was followed by a medley of famous tunes by the band, a xylophone solo by George Carey; [illegible] of the Mystic Shrine" March; "Faust Fantasia (violin solo) by Miss Rachel Senior and "Country Gardens," folk tune.

In the evening the program was:

"A Bouquet of Beloved Inspirations," entwined by Sousa. Cornet solo, "The Centennial," Bellstedt, John Dolan. Suite, "Leaves from My Note-Book," Sousa. (a) "The Genial Hostess," Vocal solo, [illegible] "Villanelle," Dell Acqua, Miss Marjorie Moody. "The Portrait of a Lady," (Kammenoi-Ostrow) Rubenstein. Fantasia, "The Merrie, Merrie Chorus," compiled by Sousa. (a) Flute solo, "Valse," Godard, Meredith Willson. (b) March, "The Dauntless Battalion (new) Sousa. Harp solo, "Fantasia Oberon," Weber-Alvarez, Miss Winnifred Bambrick. Tunes, "When the Minstrels Come to Town," Bowron.

DECLARES U. S. BOARD MENACES R. R. MEN

Calgary, Sept. 17.—Denunciation of the United States Railway Labor Board marked the address of A. R. Mosher, president, at the convention of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes today. The board, Mosher declared, "is a greater menace to railway employes than any other combination of individuals on the North American Continent."

"The strike," he said, "is, in the case of an essential public service like transportation, too powerful a weapon for use in any ordinary circumstances."

HERE'S TODAY'S LOCAL LAFS WINNERS

The street patent medicine vender closed his appeal with the sentence, "People have never made complaint."

"No wonder; dead men tell no tales," mumbled a man in the crowd, sarcastically.

Bennie Malorey, Woods Corner, North Chelmsford, Mass.

Hobson:—I sent $2.50 to a concern which advertised an appliance for keeping gas bills down and I got it this morning.

Dobson:—What did they send you?

Hobson:—A paper weight.

Miss Adeline Kuenzel, 5 Kher court, Lawrence, Mass.

"A woman fell overboard and a shark came up and looked her over, but went away without touching her."

"Never touched her?"

"No. He was a man-eating shark."

TRAFFIC LAW MENTOR NABBED AS RECKLESS

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Vincent M. Brennan of Detroit, member to Congress circuit judge-elect, and the man who drafted Detroit's traffic law, which has been used as a pattern in many cities, was arrested on the charge of reckless driving here Saturday night. He deposited $25 bail for appearance in City Court, but forfeited the bail and continued his trip. He was arrested after his car had struck and wrecked a boy's bicycle.

Greatest Shoe Sale In Our History

Gathering and holding for months shoes collected on contracts made with various New England makers of best footwear.

Ross stores contracted months ago for all rejects, countermands, overproductions and floor samples with a number of factories of known reputation as builders of fine shoes.

We can plan two sales a year only, as it is impossible to get enough shoes of this quality to support a sale of such magnitude more than twice a year. Fifteen Ross Stores must have enough shoes for at least three days' selling and Boston's share for this sale is 2740 pairs.

Our contract reads:
—"the parties of the first part further agree not to use the name of this firm in its advertising or offering of such stock."—

For the above reason and party agreement we are not permitted to name the manufacturers who are in a sense contributing to this money saving opportunity or sale of shoes, but you may be sure that they in every way represent fine workmanship, style and quality far exceeding the ridiculous price at which we have decided to distribute them.

"HOUR-GLASS" FORM GIRL NOW CLERK

Few show girls of today know the story of the woman for whom the corsets they buy were named

FRANKIE BAILEY TODAY.

FRANKIE BAILEY THEN.

Star of Frankie Bailey, first show girl to wear tights sets when corsets go out of vogue.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 17 (C.N.S.)—Dame Fashion occasionally stabs Ambition in the back and gives the knife a remorseless twist.

Take the case of Frankie Bailey. When corsets went out of style, so did Frankie Bailey.

In odd and incongrous shops of theatrical costumers all over the world, chorus girls of today ask merely for "Frankie Baileys" and the clerk takes out of a box a pair of silk tights. How many of these petulant corphoes know the origin of "Frankie Baileys?" How many of them know there even was a Frankie Bailey?

Today Frankie Bailey is an humble clerk in a Hollywood drug store. Her duty is to sell cosmetics—"make-up"—to the great and near-great figures in the film colony. Very few of her film customers know who Frankie Bailey was and, so intensive and swift is the race for laurels here in this little universe of its own, that few there are who care because Frankie Bailey is what she is.

There are two Frankie Baileys, the one of yesterday and the one of today. The Frankie Bailey of today is a woman, matronly in appearance and with black hair streaked with gray. The Frankie Bailey of yesterday was "the girl with the hour-glass form," the girl with the most shapely legs in all the wide, wide world."

She was, so she claims, the first woman on the American stage to wear tights. This was twenty-seven years ag

URGE BOYCOTT ON HARD COAL IN BAY STATE

Declaring that if the consumers permit it the price of anthracite will be increased indefinitely and that the anthracite industry is an intolerable Pennsylvania monopoly, the Joint Special Coal Investigating Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature today renewed its appeal to the people of New England to strangle the hard coal trust by boycotting it and establishing a competitive market.

In an appeal to the consumes of coal, issued by the Committee, facts are given which the members believe should stir New England to rebel against the intolerable conditions imposed upon its people by Governor Pinchot, the owners of the Pennsylvania mines and the miners themselves.

They call attention to the fact that Pennsylvania, through an unjust tonnage tax, extorts $3,450,000 from the New England States and New York, and $825,000 from the people of Massachusetts alone.

In consenting to an increase in the wages of miners in the anthracite region, says the Committee, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania consented to an increase of $32,000,000 to the people's fuel bill. Pinchot proposes that ten cents of the sixty cents increase in production costs should be absorbed by the operators of the anthracite mines.

The Committee believes that the whole sixty cents will be passed on to the consumer, if the consumer permits it.

CLERK GUILTY IN $1,000 THEFT

With the arrest and trial of Walter Matthews, a bookkeeper for the Blanchard Printing Company of Beach street, a series of defalcations totaling $1,000 and extending over a period of two years was brought to light.

Matthews was arrested by Inspector Kilday of police headquarters and arraigned today in District Court. He was found guilty and placed on probation for one year. Matthews falsified his accounts by making out fraudulent credit slips, etc.

THEY TELL OF NARROW ESCAPES

Forced to Flee Many Times, With Loot in Sight; Got About $1,000 in All

Henry Yellin, 18 years old, of Kneeland street, Boston, and Charles Vyrembeck, 17, of Grove street, Haverhill, were held in $2,500 bail each in Lynn court today chared with seventeen burglaries in which cash totalling more than $1,000 was taken from safes. They will have a hearing on Wednesday.

Police say the men confessed to breaks and told remarkable stories concerning narrow escapes from arrest.

They had their hands on $800 in the Wheeler Bottling Company, Lynn, when a patrolman rattled the door and they fled through the roof. They had worked for six hours, they said, according to police, before they opened the safe, their method being to sand-paper fingers and spin the tumblers until they guessed the combination.

At the Foreign Exchange Bank, Lynn, they labored from 9 at night until 4.30 the following morning when they opened the door only to be detected. They escaped.

Burglarizing the office of Divine Brothers, Lynn furniture store, they took $40 when forced to flee. Yellin jumped from a second-story window and broke a wrist. Afraid to go to a hospital he neglected his injury and may now have to lose a hand. All breaks were made since July last.

The youths were trailed for weeks by Special Officers Dugan and Murphy of Lynn. Yellin was arrested in Lynn, Vyrembeck in bed at his home in Haverhill.

Ex-U. S. Senator, 101, Has No "Don'ts" in Mode of Living

Los Angeles, Sept. 17.—Cornelius Cole, former United States senator from California, one of the few living men who heard Abraham Lincoln deliver his Gettysburg address, was 101 years old today.

"Longevity does not thrive on inertia," Mr. Cole declared. "One must keep moving. I eat what I want three times a day. There are no 'don'ts' in my regimen.

"I gave up tobacco six years ago. I thought it was doing me no good and perhaps a little harm. I have used alcoholic beverages temperately all my life."

DECREE GIVEN WIFE BEATEN WITH SHOE

Charles F. and Mary A. Robertson lived together five months after marriage at No. 29 Jeffries street, East Boston, and then the husband joined the navy, his wife testified in Suffolk Divorce Court today.

Before heeding the call to "Shove Off, See the World," Robertson administered a severe beating with a shoe, bringing to a climax a series of similar offences, Mrs. Robertson told Chief Justice Hall.

The woman, who is only about twenty-one years old, was granted a decree nisi and custody of her three-year-old daughter, Ruth.

In the same court Harriet Barron asked for a divorce from Arthur Barron, testifying that two months after marriage he informed her his five children by a former marriage objected to her presence in the house. As a friend he advised her to leave before trouble started. Mrs. Barron took his advice, she told the court.

Asked why did not seek alimony, the woman said she was capable of supporting herself by taking in lodgers at Revere. The case was taken under advisement.

ROXBURY COP BEATEN WHILE TRYING TO MAKE ARREST

Patrolman Nicholas Crossen of the Roxbury Crossing station was badly beaten at the junction of Huntington avenue and Longwood avenue, Roxbury, as he was placing Richard Madden of No. 73 Smith street, Roxbury, under arrest on a drunkenness charge. The police allege that Timothy McManus of Waltney street was his assailant. McManus came along and struck the officer over the right eye, it is alleged. The crowd became threatening and the officer drew his gun, firing one shot into the air for assistance. He struggled with his prisoner and his assailant, but the latter managed to get away. Patrolman Cornelius Donovan caught McManus. A crowd of several hundred people was attracted to the scene by the firing of the shot.

BACK BAY SUICIDE FOUND WITH HEAD IN GAS OVEN

Francis B. Driscoll, 43 years old, of No. 30 Hemenway street, Back Bay, committed suicide by placing his head in the oven of a gas range in the kitchen of his home. To confine the gas fumes he covered his head and the stove with a bath robe. Driscoll's unconscious form was discovered by his wife. She called Dr. Bryning of No. 1162 Boylston street and he ordered him taken to the City Hospital. Upon his arrival in a police ambulance hospital physicians pronounced him dead. He is believed to have been despondent on account of a recent illness.

ARREST IN SWINDLE OF WIDOW

South End Widow, 93, Defrauded of $25,000 by Middleboro Man, It Is Charged

Charged with the larceny of $1850 from Mrs. Annie Gray, a 93 year old South End widow, Lee Manning, 26 years old of Vaughn street, Middleboro, was arrested in that town for the police of the City Hall avenue station.

Manning was taken on a warrant obtained by Attorney Peter Borre, No. 53 State street, counsel for Mrs. Gray. Borre charges the woman has been swindled out of $25,000 and that another man and woman are being sought in connection with the case.

According to Attorney Borre, the acquaintanceship of Manning and Mrs. Gray began two years ago in Portsmouth, N. H. Transfer and forging of mortgage and an offer of marriage are said to figure in charges which will be aired when the case reaches court.

The property involved includes houses in Portsmouth, a house in Medford and several house lots. Mrs. Gray now lives at No. 9 Warrenton street, South End.

According to Borre, four bank books owned by Mrs. Gray were stolen from her and the accounts withdrawn from the banks.

After losing all her money, according to Borre, the woman confided in her nephew, William Borsunte, a full blooded Indian, who is 75 years old. He retained Borre.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO ACT ON 300 CASES

More than 300 cases will be presented when the Federal grand jury convenes in special session at the Federal building tomorrow.

The majority of these are violations against the federal prohibition law and will be presented by Assistant United States Attorneys William White Jr., and Elihu Stone. Assistant United States Attorneys John Sullivan and Joseph Carroll have about 50 criminal cases to present. It is expected the grand jury will be in session for about three weeks.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER MUST STAND RETRIAL

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 17.—William Z. Foster, Chicago labor leader, must stand re-trial soon on charges of violating the Michigan anti-syndicalism law, assistant State's Attorney General O. L. Smith announced today. The jury in Foster's first trial at St. Joseph, disagreed.

Foster is one of 76 persons who faced charges growing out of a raid by State officers on an alleged communist meeting in Berrien County in August, 1922. C. E. Ruthenberg, the only other defendant to go to trial, was convicted.

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y.—Lieutenant "Al" Williams claims to have established a new unofficial world's speed record by averaging 250 miles an hour in a navy Curtiss racing plane.

MOTHER SAYS SHE DROVE SON CRAZY

HOPES BOTH WILL DIE.

Mrs. Georgia G. Jameson in City Hospital and son, Professor Robert M. Jameson, who stabbed her and shot himself.

"I hope my son dies. I don't want to live myself. There is nothing left for me to live for."

Around this dramatic statement made in the City Hospital by Mrs. Georgia G. Jameson, sixty years old, wealthy and cultured mother of Robert M. Jameson, Boston University assistant professor, who inflicted a serious wound in her neck and then shot himself in the head during a temporary fit of insanity at their home, No. 31 Union Park street, South End, centers a drama of a mother's devotion and love for her only son. Jameson is not expected to live.

Jameson's separation from his young wife and child last Summer was the climax of the stabbing. The wife was Elizabeth M. Grosse, a beautiful and wealthy Providence girl.

"I drove him insane and I am responsible for his act," declared Mrs. Jameson. "My whole life centered about my son. His father was a brilliant physician and I wanted my son to surpass his father's achievement. I never was compelled to tell my son to study. He did it himself.

TALKED OF SUICIDE.

"When his wife, with whom he was wildly infatuated, left him on June 30, taking their baby girl with her, his condition became worse. He was not wholly himself. He talked about taking his life. He couldn't sleep at night, couldn't read and complained of noises.

"My son attacked me suddenly as I entered our apartment. It came so suddenly that I don't even know what kind of weapon he used. There was no argument, no discussion of any kind. He didn't say one word. The next thing I remember I was in this room."

DA VINCI "COPY" CONDEMNED

Paris, Sept. 17.—Sir Martin Conway, English art connoisseur, testified before American Consul General Thackara today that the "La Belle Ferroniere," owned by Mrs. Audree Hahn of Kansas City, was not painted by Leonardo da Vinci, whose recognized original of this subject hangs in the Louvre. He said it was his opinion that the Hahn picture was painted between 1650 and 1700.

Sir Martin was one of the nine critics who examined the two pictures side by side in the Louvre Saturday, in the presence of attorneys for both parties in Mrs. Hahn's damage suit against Sir Joseph Duveen because of his statement that her painting was not an original Da Vinci.

EASTMAN PROTESTS VALUATION

Minority Report Denounces Plan to Boost Passenger and Freight Rates

By JOHN T. LAMBERT,
C. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The man who rides on the train and the merchant who ships his freight may have to dig into their pockets for another $747,000,000 every year, as a result of the new valuation decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

How the new scheme if valuation can enrich the roads at the expense of the patrons is set forth in a protest of 20,000 words filed by Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman of Massachusetts.

J. B. Eastman

The first fight on this most important of all railroad issues—a fight which Senator La Follette is certain to carry to the floor of Congress—came on the valuation of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Railroad, alleged to have been financed by the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, and the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake, which negotiates the arid stretch between Salt Lake City and Southern California.

EASTMAN'S PROTEST.

Commissioner Eastman declared in his minority decision that the only proper method of valuing railroads on which to base the passenger and freight rates the public must pay is to include the "honest and prudent" investments made by the security holders, minus the sums the railroad managers neglected to expend for upkeep.

The majority of the commissioners say they considered the original cost of the roads, the cost of reproducing them, plus the present value of the land and the reproduction cost less depreciation but plus the present value of the land, and then gave their judgment.

Mr. Eastman declares that on that "fanciful and uncertain and arbitrary" theory, any commission could in the future base the value of the road solely on its judgment of what it would cost to reproduce the roads today. He said the cost of reproduction is estimated to be at least 65 percent in excess of the book value of the roads.

RAILROAD CLAIMS.

The railroads say that the property investment account of the railroads of this country is $20,040,572,611. Sixty-five per cent. of that amount is $13,000,000,000.

The roads are allowed to charge passenger and freight rates that will net them a profit of 5¾ per cent. That profit on thirteen billions would take an additional toll of $747,500,000 from the passengers and freight shippers every year.

President Coolidge and Commissioner Eastman are fellow graduates of Amherst. They served on railway commissions when the President was lieutenant-governor and Mr. Eastman was a member of the Massachusetts Public Service Commission.

AMERICAN WAGES SHOW AN INCREASE

Washington, Sept. 17.—Wages are going up in American industries. According to figures issued today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, there was a seven-tenths per cent increase in total amount paid in wages in the United States in August as compared with July. There was also an increase of nine-tenths per cent. in average weekly earnings. The greatest increase in wages was in the pottery, iron, steel, flour, women's clothing and boot and shoe industries.

ARABS REVOLT IN JORDANIA; DEMAND FOREIGNERS GET OUT

Jerusalem, Sept. 17.—Authoritative reports say that a revolution has broken out in Trans-Jordania against the Emir Abdullah.

Advices from Jerusalem on September 5 reported a revolt of 3,000 Arabs under the leadership of the Sheik of Es Salt. The rebels at that time submitted an ultimatum in which they demanded an equitable system of taxation, the expulsion of all foreigners and the formation of a parliamentary government.

BURNING SHIP MENACES ONE NEAR BY

Here mariners saved the square-rigged steel vessel Nereus from burning early today when fire damaged the condemned wooden ship Coyote, formerly owned by the United States Shipping Board, at present undergoing a junking process at a Winnisimmet street wharf, Chelsea. Two alarms brought out Chelsea apparatus and a special call was answered by Fire Boat No. 31 from Boston.

Ferryboats, bridges and elevated trains were crowded with passengers who watched firemen and deckhands attempting to check a threatening blaze in the super-structure of the Coyote that had danced to the canvass sails of the Nereus. Preliminary fire-fighting by a bucket brigade formed by the crew of the Nereus saved the latter boat from apparent destruction.

The Coyote, recently sold for $450, was purchased by a Roxbury junk dealer. Salvage work was being done at the Richard T. Greene shipyard when the fire was discovered by Patrolman Thomas P. Glennan. The cause of the fire remains undetermined.

GREAT METEOR SEEN BY SHIP'S OFFICER

New York, Sept. 17.—As he peered ahead into the dim, quiet reaches of the Atlantic in the early dawn last Wednesday, Second Officer H. H. Lancaster of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Liner Orbita was shocked from his post on the bridge when the heavens suddenly broke into a canopy of brilliant, blinding light.

For five minutes he was held spellbound while an immense meteor, the sailor's "Hound of the Heavens" shot from horizon to horizon, leaving a luminous, greenish vapor in its wake, suffusing the heavens for twenty minutes with a panorama of unnatural colors and diffusing a supernatural atmosphere.

"It was like a glorified skyrocket with a ruddy and brilliant tail," said Lancaster upon the arrival of the Orbita today. "Suddenly in the same fashion as a Chinese rocket, it burst and all the world seemed filled with a greenish, magic light. The intense light paralyzed my eyes for fully five minutes and then I saw floating in the remote upper space a streak which glowed as volcanic fires do through brownish smoke."

The meteor was recorded in the Orbita's log as flashing at 5:59 o'clock, Greenwich time, in latitude 46.12 north and longitude 38.43 west. It crosed the heavens from a southwest to a northeast location, from the direction of the Constellation of Pagasus through Cassiopeia and vanished in the region of the Great Bear. The meteor was about four times the size of Sirius.

EGYPTIAN FETE FOR YACHT CLUB

Colorful scenes of the ancient River Nile will be reproduced by the South Boston Yacht Club in its Egyptian esplanade and aquatic extravaganza next Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

Young women arrayed in fetching costumes of old Egypt are among the promising features. They will adorn the midway along the shore. A few "sheiks" of the King Tut period are also scheduled to appear.

Why Those Prettier Teeth?
They use a new way of teeth cleaning
Dainty people—millions of them—now combat the film

Wherever dainty people gather you see glistening teeth today. Cloudy teeth are rarer. Note what attraction those whiter teeth add to men and women.

Learn the way to get them. Accept this ten-day test. Millions now enjoy the benefits. Bring them to your home.

Film hides their beauty

It is film that keeps teeth cloudy—that viscous film you feel. Much of it resists the tooth brush, clings and stays. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats which hide the luster of the teeth.

Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

New discoveries made

Dental science has now discovered two effective ways to fight film, and has amply proved them out. One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

A new-type tooth paste was created to apply these methods daily. The name is Pepsodent. Leading dentists the world over have long been urging its adoption. Now careful people of some 50 nations use it every day.

Ceaseless protection

Research found other essentials. So Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. Those are Nature's agents for fighting acid and starch deposits on teeth. Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

Thus Pepsodent brings the teeth ceaseless protection, and without any harmful scouring.

You will see and feel

The results of Pepsodent are quickly seen and felt. They will amaze and delight you. One week will bring a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the cloudy coats disappear.

Then you will realize that all in your home should daily use this method. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

By Arrangement with Associated Firs National Pictures, Inc., in Whose Film Version Corrine Griffith Will Appear as Countess Zattiany

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses, after the European fashion. Lee Clavering, a brilliant newspaper writer, is immediately interested, and learns she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He makes her acquaintance and finds she is Countess Josef Zattiany. He nearly guesses her secret. He asks her to marry him. He takes her to a gay studio party, after which she invites him home to hear her story of renewed youth. He is stunned by the revelation. Meanwhile, Janet Oglethorpe, flapper daughter of one of Clavering's intimate friends, confesses her love for him. Then Madam Zattiany agrees to marry him and they plan their honeymoon.

READ ON. THE THRILLS COME FAST

"AND aren't you?" asked Mary coolly. "Isn't that just what is the matter? The sex-imagination often outlives the withering of the sex-glands. Come now, admit it. Forget that you are a pastel-tinted remnant of the old order and call a spade a spade."

"There's something terrifying about you, Mary." Miss Trevor had flushed a dark purple, but she had very honest eyes, and they did not falter. "But I respect you more than any woman I have ever known. And although you are not very sympathetic you are the only person on earth to whom I could even mention such a subject."

"Well, go ahead," said Mary resignedly. "If you want my advice take your courage in your hands and do it. However, people may carp, there is nothing they so much admire as courage."

"Yes, but they make you suffer tortures just because they do admire it — or to keep themselves from admitting it."

"True enough. But after all, they don't matter. Life would be so much simpler if we'd all make up our minds that what other people think about us does not signify in the least. It's only permitting it to signify that permits it to exist."

"That's all very well for you, but it's really a question of temperament. Do you think I'd dare come back here looking like a girl again—and I suppose I should. I'm sixteen years younger than you. . . . You must know how many of the women hate you."

"That sort of hate may be very stimulating, my dear Agnes," said Madame Zattiany drily.

"I can understand that. But I should return to what it is hardly an exaggeration to call a life of a thousand intimacies. The ridicule! The contempt! The merciless criticism! I don't want to live anywhere else. I can face it! But, oh, I do so want it! I do so want it!"

"But just think of the compensations. No doubt you would marry immediately. If you were happy, and with a man to protect you, how much would you care?"

"Oh!" Once more the thin ascetic face was dyed with an unbecoming flush. "Oh!" And then the barriers fell with a crash and she hurried on, the words tumbling over one another, as her memory, its inhibitions shattered, swept back into the dark vortex of her secret past.

"Oh, Mary! You don't know! You don't know! You, who've had all the men you ever wanted. You, they say, have a young man now. The nights of horror I've passed. I've never slept a wink the nights our girls married. I could have killed them. I could have killed every man I've met for asking nothing of me. It seems to me I've thought of nothing else for twenty years. When I've been teaching, counselling good thoughts, virtue, good conduct, to those girls down there, it's been in the back ground of my mind every minute like a terrible obsession.

"I wonder I haven't gone mad. Some of us old maids do go mad. And no one knew until they raved what was the matter with them. When Hannah de Lacey lost her mind three years ago I heard one of the doctors telling Peter Vane that her talk was the most libidinous he had ever listened to. And she was the most forbidding old maid in New York. I know if I lose my mind it will be the same, and that alone is enough to drive any decent woman mad. . . . I thought I'd get over it in time—I used to pray—and fight with my will—but when the time came when I should have been released I was afraid I would, and then I deliberately did everything I could to keep it alive. I couldn't lose my right—— It was my right. I couldn't tell you all the things I've —— Oh, I tell you that unless I can be young again and have some man—any man—I don't care whether he'll marry me or not—I'll go mad—mad!"

Her voice had risen to a shriek. She would be in hysterics in another moment. Mary, who was on the point of nausea, went hastily into her dressing-room and poured out a dose of sal volatile. "Here!" she said peremptorily. "Drink this. I'll not listen to another word. And I don't wish to be obliged to call an ambulance."

Miss Trevor gulped it down and then permitted herself to be led to a sofa, where she lay sprawled, her immaculate hat on one side, giving her the look of a debauched gerontic virgin. She lay panting for a few moments, while Madame Zattiany paced up and down the room.

She turned as she heard a groan. Miss Trevor was sitting up straightening her hat. "Feel better?" she asked unsympathetically.

"Oh, yes—my nerves feel better! But what have I said, What must you think of me? I never expected to give way like that when I came. I thought I could put it all to you in a few delicate hints, knowing that you would understand. What have I said? I can hardly remember."

"Better not try! I'll promise to forget it myself." She sat down beside the sofa. "Now listen to me. It would not be wise for you to go to Vienna. They would suspect, if not at once, then certainly when you returned. It can be done here. The rejuvenescence is so gradual that it would hardly be noticed. Fully a year. You do not have to go into a hospital, nor even to bed. You are not spied on, so no one would suspect that you were taking the treatment. At your age success is practically assured. Take it, and don't be a fool. If you don't it's only a question of time whe that superb self-control you have practised for so many years will go again. And too possibly, in the wrong place. It is quite likely that you will never be suspected, because women often bloom out in their forties, take on a new lease of life. Begin to put on a little make-up—'"

Miss Trevor interrupted with a horrified exclamation.

"It would be judicious. If they criticise you, remember that nothing they can say will be as bad—from your point of view—as their finding out the truth. They will lay it to that, and to the fact that you have grown a little stouter. And let me tell you, you won't care in the least, even if conservatism attacks you in solid battalions, for your mental attitude to life will be entirely changed. Remember that you will be young again, and too gay and happy to mind what people think of you. Now, promise me that you will take my advice, and then go home and to bed."

Miss Trevor got up and went to the mirror. "Yes, I'll do it." And then she said, no doubt for the first time in her life: "And I'll not give a damn, no matter what happens."

When she had left Mary Zattiany stood for a few moments striking her hands together, her face distorted. A wave of nausea overwhelmed her. She felt as if there had been an earthquake in her own soul and its muck were riding the surface. She loathed herself and all women and all men. She knew that the violence of the revulsion must be temporary, but for the moment it was beyond her control.

She went to the telephone and called up Clavering and told him that she had a severe headache and was going to bed. And she cut short both his protests and his expression of sympathy by hanging up the receiver. And then she picked up a vase and hurled it to the floor and smashed it.

Pot Roast

Get a short, thick piece of the cross rib of the beef and lard it with small strips of clear fat pork. Put the pot in which the meat is to be cooked over the fire, and when it becomes hot put in the beef and brown, turning the meat until all sides are browned. Add 6 small onions, 2 tablespoons of tomatoes, 1 bay leaf, a little chopped parsley, 3 cloves, a few black peppers, 1 cup of stock, place the pot where the meat will steam for 3 hours. Be sure the pot is tightly covered. One hour before serving add 2 carrots sliced thin, another cup of stock if needed. Remove the meat to a hot platter, season the gravy and add 1 teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, thicken with a little flour and press all through a sieve. Pour the gravy around the meat on the platter. Serve very hot.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

"YOU poor kid! You're fighting alone and with your back to the wall!" cried Betty.

I stopped and stared at her.

"You sound as if you were on my side," I gasped.

"I always am—on your side," said Betty warmly. "I told you long ago that whenever you were—troubled, I wanted you to know you could come to Betty B. Remember?"

"Yes, I remember."

"But this time you didn't come," murmured Betty reproachfully.

"It was Neal's secret. I wanted to keep it," I stammered. "The family knew—naturally. I went to Ralph for help—after the family had—let him know about things. We're starting a nation-wide search for Neal. And now Rosa Cordova overheard things. So I had to tell her. I felt she ought to get an ungarbled version. But, dear, I didn't want to bother you. Now I've got to call off tonight's dinner, because Carlotta's coming back and she and Tony must be told. I hate disappointing Park. I can't—hurt you after you've broken your engagement with Miss Gregory for me."

"With Miss Gregory?" Betty began, then she went on, letting it stand. "I'll take care of tonight. I'll have the dinner at my place—saying just enough about the bride and groom and their return to help you out. I'll even call Jim for you—if you're too busy to stop."

It was said lamely.

I hesitated a moment.

Then I shook my head.

"There's no need for Jim to be at the Carlotta-Tony dinner tonight," I replied to Betty's offer to telephone Jim for me if I was too busy to stop. "Jim doesn't admire Carlotta particularly. And he's never cared for Tony, as you know. It's you who are Tony's pal"——

"Oh, I'm taking care of Park and Ralph," answered Betty. "And, anyway — as long as you have to tell the Norreys, too, about Neal, you'll be better off without any intruders to keep you from making everything clear"—

"You don't believe in him, either," I said sadly. "You're just standing by me—I wish"——

The touch of Betty's hand on my cheek interrupted me. Her voice followed with the same gentleness as if it were a caress.

"Of course I believe in Neal! Haven't I made that clear? I couldn't believe anything unkind of that sweet boy you adore so. He's so like you, Anne, that I never think of him as your half-brother. He's like you to the fibre of him. And he'd be as likely to take anything that didn't belong to him as you would. Neal's all right. And you can count on Tony to see it. I wouldn't be so sure about Carlotta"——

"Oh, Betty!" I interrupted. Then again I cried: "Oh, Betty, Carlotta knows Neal. She will understand. I'm sure of Carlotta."

For the moment I was inarticulate, powerless to say more. I found my mind flashing back to the recollection of how amazingly Rose Cordova had taken Neal's story. I could hear her crying:

"I would never forgive Jaime for not believing in the boy!"

And now that Betty trusted him warmly and generously I began to see how truth prevails. Neal's case might look black to his very own—but Betty saw — and even Rosa understood. In the bitterness of knowing that Jim has no faith in Neal I had to find comfort in the growing "cloud of witnesses" for the defence.

Betty didn't interrupt my thoughts. She sat quiet and understanding, waiting for me to find words. At last they came.

"I've been ready to have—anyone turn against Neal, if Jim could"—I dragged it from my soul. "I was afraid circumstantial evidence was too convincing."

SECRETS OF HEALTH

SALT IN REASONABLE AMOUNTS

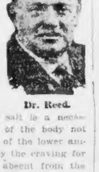
By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.

SALT, common table salt, by which is meant sodium chloride, is a normal constituent of the human body.

It is estimated that about fifteen one-hundredths of the body weight consists of salt.

A large proportion of the salt of the human system is in the blood.

It gets into the system as a constituent of many foods and as salt added to food.



Dr. Reed.

The fact that salt is a necessary constituent of the body not only of man but of the lower animals, is shown by the craving for salt when it is absent from the food.

If we take no salt with our food we continue to throw off, or to excrete, salt, the chlorine of which amounts to about seventy grams the first day and only about one gram on the thirteenth day.

This simply means that, if the supply is not kept up, the salt can be pretty thoroughly drained out of the system.

Then trouble usually begins.

This is because the salt in the system, especially in the blood, is necessary to promote absorption and solutions, and tissue changes all of which are necessary for health.

But you can take and you probably do take too much salt as a condiment.

Taken in excess, salt stimulates the appetite and provokes thirst with the result that you both eat and drink more than is normal.

It has been estimated that the amount of salt that you throw off under a salt-free diet before you begin to feel the necessity for more salt, represents the amount that you have taken in excess of what you need. Excessive salt-taking is a mere habit.

As a rule, the average person can get along on about one-fourth of the salt he has acquired the habit of shaking over his food.

The healthy look that DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Gives is Natures Own

Ladies! This Beats Cosmetics

GOOD health cannot be camouflaged by powder and rouge. The eyes will tell. That sparkle and clearness that denote good health will not be there if you are constipated. Mrs. Clara Proctor of Pottersville, Mich., had been told by doctors she had this and that disease, and one advised an operation, but she knew she had been constipated all her life so first tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. She avoided the operation and now feels better than she ever did. Likewise Mrs. William Appleton of Eddington, Pa., who was badly constipated and now looks her best again after using Syrup Pepsin.

On Sale for 30 Years

Intelligent women are realizing that health and mere outward complexion are two different things, and more and more are taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Over 10 million bottles were bought in drug stores last year, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world! Go to your druggist and buy a bottle. The cost is less than a cent a dose. You will see how much more effective a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin is than tablets, powders or pills, and without shock to the system.

Safe Family Laxative

Use it regularly a day before and a day after the periods. The gentle emptying of the bowels will give you relief, and lessen headaches and congestion. Take a spoonful at bed-time and see how much better you feel in the morning. It is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics, and entirely safe not only for you but for the youngest child. Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the home for you or some other member of the family may need it any moment to relieve constipation, to break up fevers and colds, to clear up biliousness, indigestion, a pimple, a fever sore and other disturbances that show constipation.

JOHNSON BASEBALL RULING HAS HELPED BIG PITCHERS

TWO NO-HIT GAMES IN WEEK

By NICK FLATLEY

Ban Johnson was right when he declared that too many new baseballs were ruining pitching. He made his proclamation when deciding that the umpires and players were getting too finicky about soiled and scarred agates.

Ban Johnson

So, a few weeks back, he ordered his arbitrators to ease up, to keep balls in play until they were really cut up a bit. John Heydler of the National League followed suit. Since that time there have been more good pitching stunts, almost, than there were all season previously.

Sam Jones startled the baseball universe by undoing a no-hit game a little while ago. He followed along with a two hitter, going six chapters in that one before any one registered a blow. That was a record for the large leagues.

Sam Jones

Then Howard Ehmke of the Red Sox stepped out and surpassed the Jones performance. He blanked the Athletics without a hit, and in his very next start held the champion Yankees to one scratchy tap. That blow was so weak that practically everybody but the scorers called it an error. There is still some agitation to have the ruling changed.

Whatever happens Howard goes on the books with a record that may be equalled sometime or other, but it's doubtful. That one little whack erased would have made him the most remarkable chucker of all time.

And you can't get away from the fact that the ball had a whole lot to do with it. Before the league presidents got busy dozens and dozens of balls were being used every day in every game. Any time a player called for a new marble he got it. Each time a ball hit a screen or stand it was tossed into the discard.

Ehmke

The pitchers were always using the new and slippery eggs. They couldn't put all their stuff on 'em, it being practically impossible to clutch the sphere securely.

There have been miles of dreams written about trick pitching lately. Laws were passed to curb the boys who took advantage of the rough spots, or dirt spots. The wild desire for more hitting made the life of the hurler very miserable.

But things are drifting back to normal. The boys in the old days used to "sail" cut balls, and break them from the rough spots and all that. It was just a part of the game. The reform started when the heavers got things down to a scientific basis, started using emery and all sorts of things to doctor up the onions.

The pitchers overdid the matter and they have suffered. Now matters seem to be swinging back. Getting a sensible balance between hitting and pitching is a delicate matter. The lively ball made swatting too common. The emery ball made pitching too big. The directors of the pastime seem to have concluded that a not too lively ball, and not too much restriction of flingers will hit the popular fancy. Which should be the case.

The good of the game has been argued as the cause for the most recent change, but when you get right down to facts it's simply a matter of economy. Club expenses for baseballs in a season used to average about $750. In the past couple of seasons several have spent more than $10,000 in a year for balls alone.

In 1922 the St. Louis Browns bill for this item was $9,200. Baseballs have increased a lot in price, like everything else, but the reckless use of them has been the big trouble. Four or five dozen a game had grown to be the average before Presidents Ban and John stepped in. Now that they have we should have more of that real pitching that the true fan likes fully as well as he does slugging.

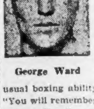
Ward's Manager Says He Will Beat Shevlin

Sam Golden, manager of George Ward, figures that the twenty-two-year-old Elizabeth, N. J., welterweight will have an easy time winning over Eddie Shevlin in their ten-round bout at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on Friday night.



George Ward

Ward is punching harder than ever, while he is displaying his usual boxing ability," writes Golden. "You will remember that when Ward battled Shevlin, at Revere, a year ago, the match was postponed twice. As a result, my protege was not on edge when the contest was held. Even at that I thought he outpointed Shevlin.

"Last Winter at Mechanics Building Ward proved his fighting ability when he pasted Dave Shade around the ring. The decision went to Shade, but most of the fans consider the verdict of the judges a robbery.

LANDERS BACK WITH JULIAN IN BIG GO

Greater Boston boxing fans will see plenty of action tonight at the Grand Opera House when Tony Julian of Brockton and Mickey Landers of the North End square off in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Triple A show.

Landers was recently given a verdict over his rival from the Shoe City. After the North End pugilistic aspirant had jumped in as a sub.

Besides the feature contest, there will be three other bouts of eight rounds. In the semi-final Steve Adams, the slugging kid from Chicago, will mix it up with Frankie Ryan. George LeBate of Brockton will show in another with Willie Stanley of the North End, while in the opening number Eddie Sardello of the North End will make his initial pro battle with Joe Munroe of Charlestown.

PENINSULA BOYS AFTER GRID TITLE

The South Boston Independents, formerly the "Wild Cats," had their first real gridiron practice at Columbus Park, South Boston, yesterday afternoon. Out of 31 tilts last season the peninsula boys were victorious in 30. Under the fine coaching of Charlie Mahoney, a former college player, the champs of South Boston have a good show of taking the title again. Jack Sualich, well-known local baseball manager, has taken over the outfit and would like to book any 125-135-pound team offering a reasonable guarantee. Call S. B. 3595-R, or write to Jake Sualich, 176 E street, South Boston.

BATCHELDER A PITCHER OF PROMISE

Pittsfield, Sept. 17.—Class, confidence and control characterized the work of Joe Batchelder the boy who leaped from the Boston Twilight league ranks to become the most sensational hurler in the Eastern League in a single season.

Joe Batchelder

He has been bought by the Braves.

Batchelder, a Wenham boy, 23 years of age, was a chauffeur for a private family in Boston before he joined Pittsfield last Spring. He commanded attention when he turned back New Haven in the home of the 1922 champions before a big Sunday crowd.

It was the first time Pittsfield had defeated New Haven in that city since the season of 1921.

Joe showed that his performance was not merely luck, for he defeated Bill Donovan's club six times this year out of eight starts against that team.

He has had great courage when in a tight place, but he has had such excellent control that generally he has been ahead of the opposition. In one game Batchelder allowed four bases on balls, that against New Haven here last Thursday, but he had allowed only one pass in his three previous games.

Groomed by Art Wilson, former catcher for the Giants and Braves, Batchelder knows much that will be expected of him in working for a major league club.

Art has made it a point to catch Batchelder whenever he has been able to do so and, consequently, Joe has had the advantage of excellent tutoring.

New Hampshire Squad Has Three Good Elevens

Ocean Park, Me., Sept. 17.—With the first game with Middlebury only two weeks off, the New Hampshire University squad at its training camp here is showing all sorts of pep and each man is fighting hard for his position.

The last change was to take Captain Wenworth from half back and put him in at quarter, the position at which he will probably start the season.

The squad is divided into three teams, Captain Wentworth in charge of one; Cutler the second, and Donovan the third. Stearns is playing left end on team B, and Nicona has been transferred from end to the backfield.

This arrangement gives four big men, Piper, McKinley, Campbell and Stearns, for ends.

HARVARD, TIGER AND YALE SQUADS REPORT

By NICK FLATLEY.

It is now officially the football season. The Big Three teams have rumbled out for practice and that settled that little point. Now we have merely to wait for the games, and the coachs' wails and alibis and things like that.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton had their first practice yesterday afternoon, and no season could be called that until the big fellows got down to business.

They are all getting down in the customary style. We hear that Yale is very weak in the line, Harvard has no back field, while the Tigers have been "shot" in both more or less essential departments.

That's as it should be. The propoganda is as familiar and necessary as the well known whistle for the great college game. A football team is as weak as its most dolorous interview, and sometimes one wonders how the poor athletes are even able to hobble to the field, much less play.

Bob Fisher

But be that as it may. More than a hundred husky youths tramped out to Soldiers Field for Bob Fisher's Crimson team. Similar squads were out at New Haven and Nassau. A lot of stars are missing, naturally, but a lot of covered up prospects are very much present.

For instance. Over at Harvard, Evans, who used to go to Marquette, is said to be ready to become an All-America end. Down at Yale they have a caveman guard from Wabash, Milsted, who was so tough last year that Captain Jordan refused to let his regulars practice against him. From the Jungle comes the rumor that Herb Treat, last season's outstanding tackle, will be eligible once more.

Little things, like this, keep the football fanatic all stirred up, until the games roll along, which is only a matter of a fortnight now.

HARVARD HAS GOOD MATERIAL FOR BACKFIELD

Harvard must mould a backfield, but there is a flock of good material in Cambridge, and plenty of the very best coaching to develop the same. One Harvard hero, of other years, tells us that this fall the Crimson will start out with a stronger machine than the Blue, for the first time in at least four jaunts over the whitewashed trail.

Reports from Yale sound familiar, that a real team will be moulded from the ever-present possibilities. All the Eli grads think it's high time for that, but the matter is up to Tad Jones once more. In his two past campaigns, the Jones party hasn't come close to measuring up to the hopes of his pop-eyed alumni.

Bill Roper, with his knack of developing surprising elevens, seems to have the hardest job ahead of any of the Big Three mentors. But William usually comes up with something that is decidedly there, or thereabouts. If Treat can play again, a serious line problem will be partially settled. If he can't life will be something else again for cagey William.

Bob Fisher at the Stadium, has the world's greatest collection of All-America coaches. He directs things in general and has the following somewhat famous staff of assistants: Dr. Parmenter, for centers; Tommy Woods, for guards; Keith Kane, for tackles; Ernie Soucy, for ends; Charlie Buell, for quarterbacks; George Owen, for the other backs, and Eddie Mahan, for the kickers.

It isn't much wonder, after all, that the Crimson machine is quite a piece of work when late November frosts the sidelines.

Yanks Will Play Orioles

The Yankees will assist the Orioles in the Baltimore Club's preparations for the junior world's series.

TRAINMEN CLASH WITH SOLDIERS

Manager Harry McLean's undefeated B. R. B. & L. R. R. will draw a most successful season to a close at Engleside Park, Winthrop tonight when it meets the strong Fort Banks teams in a return engagement. The trainmen scored a 2 to 1 verdict over the soldiers last Sunday.

Eddie Zeigler

Both teams are evenly matched and a hot battle should result. The 10th U. S. Infanery Band will render selections during the game. Lefty Burrows will do the tossing for the trainmen and Eddie Zeigler will work behind the plate. Bill McDonald, popular Boston College athlete who recently was retired will be seen back on the Beach outfit playing the hot corner.

JACK DEMPSEY IS SURE HE CAN KNOCK OUT HARRY WILLS

MAY DEFEND TITLE IN SPRING

By JACK CONWAY

New York, Sept. 17. Jack Dempsey says he believes [illegible] can knock out Harry [illegible] negro challenger, just as [illegible] as he stopped Luis Firpo. [illegible]

[illegible] "He [illegible] Firpo and [illegible] I would not have [illegible] as I opened up and [illegible] [illegible] Wills [illegible]

Jack Kearns [illegible] to stage a [illegible] Wills [illegible]

KEARNS DOES NOT THINK WELL OF TANK TOWNS

That place is another [illegible] said Kearns "I [illegible] to [illegible] with tank towns. New York and New Jersey are the places where Dempsey will do his fighting in the future."

Asked when Dempsey would [illegible] Kearns [illegible] "Not until next year. The [illegible] season is [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Dempsey will [illegible] defend his title again before next May.

CONSIDERS AN OFFER TO FIGHT SPANISH STAR

"Tom Gibbons may then be given another chance at the title. I am also considering a proposition to have Dempsey [illegible] with Esparza, the Spanish title holder. We are at all times ready to sign to fight Wills. Before we will do so, however, we must have assurance the [illegible] can be held.

"No governor [illegible] State [illegible] boxing [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Dempsey would [illegible] Wills [illegible] he [illegible] could [illegible]

JACK FOUGHT AS WELL AS HE DID AT TOLEDO.

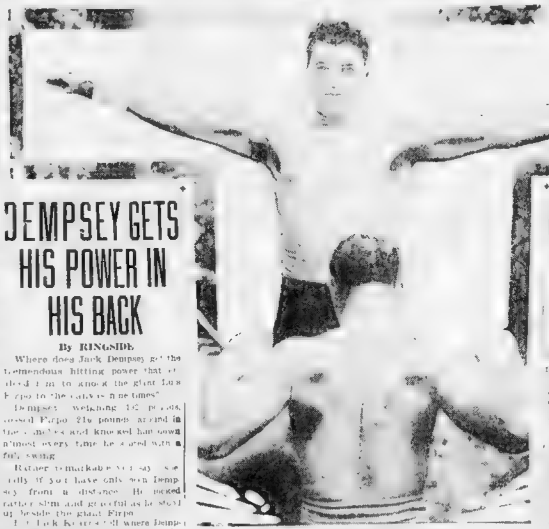
"I think Jack has proved he is as great a fighter as ever in knocking out Firpo in two rounds. He fought as well as he did at Toledo.

"Firpo, although decisively defeated, won considerable praise as a result of his game fight. By knocking Dempsey down he proved he is as great a puncher as he was reputed to be.

"If Firpo had been allowed the extra year he desired in order to gain more experience for the championship match, perhaps things would have been different.

"Dempsey and Firpo will probably fight under the direction of Tex Rickard when they are ready to resume operations in the ring. Rickard has proved his ability to put big fights over in a big way."

Where Power of the Blows That Kavoed Firpo Came From



THIS VIEW OF DEMPSEY'S BACK SHOWS WHERE HE GETS HIS TREMENDOUS HITTING STRENGTH AND POWER

DEMPSEY GETS HIS POWER IN HIS BACK

By RINGSIDE

Where does Jack Dempsey get the tremendous hitting power that enabled him to knock the giant Luis Firpo to the canvas nine times?

Dempsey, weighing 192 pounds, tossed Firpo 216 pounds around in the ring [illegible] and knocked him down almost every time he landed with a full swing.

Rather remarkable, you say, especially if you have only seen Dempsey from a distance. He looked rather slim and graceful as he stood up beside the giant Firpo.

But Jack Kearns tell where Dempsey gets his punching power as he told the story to this writer as we rode from [illegible] last week.

"Dempsey's hitting muscles are in his back," said Kearns. "They are not noticeable when the champion is at rest. But when he steps in and lets drive with a terrific punch those muscles act like springs. They give power and snap to the blow.

"The champion also has great strength in his shoulder muscles. His arms are stronger than those of any other fighter. He has a trick when in close of locking his opponent's arms by using either his left or right arm. There isn't a fighter in the world other than Dempsey who can hold a big fellow helpless by only calling into play one arm.

"The champion's muscles are very supple. This adds to his punching power. Wrestlers with big, bulging muscles cannot punch a great deal. Stanley Ketchel, one of the greatest hitters in the history of the ring, had muscles which were as [illegible] as those of a girl.

"Dempsey's spring also adds to his ability to punch. He plunges forward when he delivers a blow. It gives the punch the effect of a [illegible]

Yankees Are Certain of the American League Flag

By winning a double header from the Indians Sunday, the champion Yankees made it a mathematical impossibility for themselves to lose the pennant. The worst that can happen to them, if all games are played, is to wind up in a tie with the Indians.

The clubs stand at present as follows:

Yankees	9[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Indians	71	6[illegible]	[illegible]

The champs have [illegible] games scheduled, the Speakers [illegible]. If the Yanks should lose all, which they will not, and the Clevelanders win all their [illegible], which they will not, then the ultimate [illegible] would be:

Yankees	9[illegible]	62
Cleveland	9[illegible]	62	[illegible]

The Giants, on the other hand, still have their troubles.

Don't Wait For Someone to Urge You

Learn now why one man tells another about Blue Boars

Your curiosity, sooner or later, will be aroused to the trying point—and you'll smoke your first pack of Blue Boars.

Why not hasten the day—commence sooner to know a new delight in cigarettes?

Don't wait to be told, "It's the triple blend."

In fairness to yourself, sir, because otherwise you'll never know what you're missing, we ask you to smoke twenty Blue Boars.

However wedded you are to some favorite cigarette, remember that you had to discover it once, and by the same token you may discover a new favorite.

We'd like you to compare Blue Boar tobacco, TRIPLY blended, with that which is blended but once, the usual way.

Triple blending is a new discovery—a refinement of refinements. If we take the quick decision of over 500,000 men as decisive, Blue Boars are bound to take a leading position.

Nearly every man who smokes a pack of Blue Boars switches to them immediately. And one man tells another: "It's the triple blend."

National Shawmut Bank [illegible] has been awarded a [illegible] loan of the City of Boston [illegible] dated Sept. 17, 1923, and due Nov. 8, 1923, at 4.28 per cent., interest to follow, plus $9.26 premium.

Viewed over the full 12 months, there is no doubt that 1923 will be regarded as a year of good business. The overflow from the spring boom has been sufficient to keep mills and factories [illegible] and have been curtailing ere this had they been dependent upon orders normally [illegible] the third and fourth quarters.

Nevertheless, whether orders will flow in during the next month in volume to occupy our enormous industrial productive capacity remains to be seen.

Boston Notes

RAYMOND OWEN, formerly interested in production of Owen Magnetic automobiles, with two others, has bid $450,000 for plant of Stevens-Duryea in Chicopee.

GULF Refining Co. has reduced price of gasoline 1 cent in New York, New Jersey and New England [illegible] cents tank wagon.

MAGMA profits from sale of copper are [illegible] work.

UTAH in second 1923 quarter made a record by getting nearly 6 cents a pound profit on copper.

CHINO'S poor results in second quarter were in part due to interference with production through installation of machinery and changes in mill methods.

WICKWIRE SPENCER STEEL was launched at a difficult time but has apparently now succeeded in getting its various plants thoroughly co-ordinated.

BUTTE & Superior's income from operations during second quarter was reduced by decline in zinc and lead and suspension of Pittman Act.

NEW Cornelia with its new milling facilities will be able to treat the large tonnage of sulphide ore which underlies oxidized ores now being treated in leaching plant.

TWENTY-NINE experienced men recently arrived at Copper Range mines, coming principally from the Camborne and Redruth districts of Cornwall.

TRAVEL BRIEFS

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

Sunday service on the Bangor Line to Rockland, Bangor and Penobscot River points, with connection for Bar Harbor, Bluehill and intermediate landings, will be discontinued from Boston and from Bangor on September 23rd, for the balance of the season.

To encourage week-end trips to Maine a one way fare for the round trip has been made for the remainder of the period of Sunday service. These special tickets are good going on Saturday, and returning on Sunday only, from all of the points reached by the line.

The sail from Boston to Bangor on the Penobscot River is one of the most delightful trips that can be imagined. The journey to the eastward on the Bar Harbor or Bluehill lines is a veritable procession past innumerable islands and beautifully rugged shores, while in the distance the famous Mt. Desert rears its outline.

These week-end trips make it possible for [illegible] at very [illegible] expense. The [illegible] for the special tickets which [illegible] September 23rd [illegible] on September 23rd.

BOWLING LEAGUE TO RESUME

ARMOUR CHIEF SAYS OUTLOOK IS GOOD

By F. EDSON WHITE, President of Armour & Co.

[illegible] the meat packing industry is a barometer of general business conditions and it has been a [illegible] prospects for the immediate future are excellent.

National prosperity, or [illegible] of it, is always reflected in the meat bill and the fact that the American public has greatly increased its meat purchases in the past year, is significant.

A record breaking amount of meat has had to be marketed because of the tremendous receipts of live stock sent in from the farms and ranches, but the country was in financial condition to absorb the increase at steady and even slightly stronger prices. It was a most unusual condition and full meaning to people who study economic causes and effects.

The experience of the meat industry is not the only harbinger of prosperity. When [illegible] employed, as is the case now, and when crops are large, as is also the case, times are good. Ordinarily our industry finds it exceedingly easy to get plenty of labor and while we have a sufficiency, the days of an unemployed crowd outside the gate seem to have passed.

Excepting wheat which, unfortunately, has been given the spotlight, the crop situation is very favorable

Radio Trade Notes

The "Thorophone," demonstrated by the Radio Sales and Service, No. 34 Avery street, is a loud speaker deserving of mention. It has exceptionally good volume without harshness, and is so constructed that it eliminates the overtones or echoes defect found in some loud-speakers that jumble the music and make it an unintelligible mixture of sounds. The "Thorophone" is not only practical, but the workmanship and finish are such that it would be a credit to the most expensive set.

Tower's Supersensitive Head Phones are very popular. They cost $3.98 and are sold on a money-back guarantee. Most stores carry them in stock, and many use them for demonstrating purposes.

Some very good window radio displays are seen about town. Watch these windows, and you'll see some valuable features.

The Radio Specialty Company of No. 70 Cornhill has a new product, the Jacobs 180 degree variometer. It has been placed on the market after several months of careful experimentation and has proved a great success. Designed especially for reflexing, it is wound on a specially impregnated cellular paper composition. It is large enough to cover the broadcast wave lengths.

The Jacobs Radio Supply Company's new store, managed by Ed Jones, at No. 142 Washington street in Adams square, seems to be increasing in popularity every day. Prices have met with the approval of the customers, because the store seems always well patronized. It has a complete stock of parts and carries the Erla, Greene and Jacobs sets.

"Erla" is a name very frequently heard in the radio shops. The new Erla triplex circuit, using three tubes and the Erla synchronized radio and audio frequency transformers, gives excellent results. A booklet giving detailed working diagrams and descriptions may be obtained from your dealer.

Winning Radio Wrinkle

I hope someone will try this wrinkle when bothered with a static. Just take a piece of wire and attach it to a screen door. We get Philadelphia, New York and other stations using the screen door as an aerial. L. H. W.

Good Work by State Police in Suitcase Murder

The work of the State police in the suitcase murder is gratifying to taxpayers of Massachusetts. Colonel Foote's men have shown that they can be made a most important factor in crime detection throughout the Commonwealth

Starting with nothing more tangible than the cretonne lining of the suitcases which held parts of the murdered woman's body such progress was made in less than two weeks as to warrant arrests and establish identification of the victim

One of the matters which now encumbers the department of public safety is the assignment of State detectives to all fairs in Massachusetts to see that State laws against gambling devices are observed. This takes up the time of most of the State force of detectives during the many weeks of fair time and could well be left to local authorities. The State police have proved themselves to be capable of attending to bigger things.

Merger of Maine Roads

Business Men of Portland Show Good Sense When They Object [illegible]

The business men of Portland, Maine are certainly showing some common sense when they object to the proposed merger of the Bangor & Aroostook, Maine Central and the New York Central railroads. Any delivery of the New England lines to a New York or to an outside trunk line is going to be a very bad blow to New England. Any control of any of our railroads outside of New England is a bad thing for New England

We should think that our business men would be quite satisfied with the example we had when Morgan controlled the New Haven, and the New Haven controlled everything in New England except the Bangor & Aroostook and the Boston & Albany

The interest of the Pennsylvania in the New Haven is quite sufficient. We want no more such control, and we would be better pleased if the Pennsylvania had no interest at all in the New Haven

Let the New England railroads stand together under public operation as suggested by the Governors' Commission, and with the public support they will work out their own salvation. It is the rankest kind of folly to turn them over to the very type of men and class of interests which have ruined them or brought them to the verge of ruin

Let everyone remember that the Boston & Maine had an existence of over seventy years and went through the greatest crises this country ever knew, always paying dividends and never sniveling or failing to meet its obligations, until New York high finance got hold of it, and until the American Express Company and the telephone company and the Standard Oil interest and Morgan—through the New York & New Haven Railroad—laid pirate hands upon it

Now if good fortune and not the intelligence of New England business has wrested that control away, there is no sense even in talking about restoring the roads to the same old free-booters, which is exactly what New York banking management means

The Best Age of Man

Standard Oil Says 53

What is the age of maximum efficiency for an American citizen? A fairly safe answer is found in the statistics of the Standard Oil Board of Directors, in New Jersey.

There the average age is fifty-three years. The average length of service, thirty-three years

Standard Oil picks it men carefully, tries them thoroughly, keeps them if good, gets rid of them if otherwise. The average age for a Standard Oil director is fifty-three, and fifty-three is probably, in our day, the average age of maximum efficiency.

The average ought to be much higher, seventy at least, and it WILL be that and higher yet when men learn how to live. Things are much better than they were. A few hundred years ago in one of the big cities of France you could not find a man or woman past fifty—all were killed before that by disease. The man that lived to fifty was called a "graybeard." All but the young remember how American women were expected to wear little lace caps and retire into the background at thirty-five or forty. Now at fifty or sixty they bob their hair and advance into the foreground, which is right.

An Old French Fighter

Wine and Water Seem to Suit Him

The oldest veteran of the big war, a Frenchman, Georges Mesnager, has just died aged seventy-nine. He fought through the Franco-Prussian War, fifty-three years ago, and when this war started he hurried from America to France and joined the army. He fought at Verdun, Calonne, Chemin des Dames and a dozen other famous battlegrounds. The French seem to do fairly well on their diet, which includes a great deal of red wine and water. What could they not do if they could be taught to drink water only?

Such courage and vigor in old age crop up often in history. You remember the old Bohemian King, stone blind, but determined to have one more good fight. He had his horse chained to the horses of two knights, riding either side, and while they led him into the thick of the battle, he used the sword on the enemy at random until he was killed. It may amaze Dempsey and Firpo to hear that there were no gate receipts.

Cripple Asks Help

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a widow along in years [illegible] care for. My right hand is crippled. I have a serious heart affliction and cannot work except what I do in my own home. I have to let two rooms, and with expenses so high I have had nothing to wear in ages. Is there some kind woman who has a coat or a suit, size 42, that she does not want? I am badly in need of any sort of wearing apparel. I will be very, very grateful to both the giver and the Helping Hand Column. MRS. S. S.

To Help Winnifred

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you kindly send me the address of the little ten-year-old girl, Winnifred, who has no school clothes? Will be very happy to write letters to her. I haven't many clothes to send to her, but probably a few, but will try to make her a little happier anyway. Your column is wonderful. I never go to bed without reading it and wishing I were better able to do something for someone. A. G. M.

Many thanks. You have been sent the address of Winnifred, and we have no doubt that you, in your kindly generosity, will help to make her a little happier.

Dreads the Winter

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if anybody will help me. I have four children. My husband hasn't worked steady since he was hurt last November and he is out of work now. God knows I had such [illegible] time last Winter and [illegible] this Winter will be [illegible]. I don't know what to do. I owe so many bills. I owe two months' rent and store bills and gas bill. I surely will be put out when I tell the landlady my husband is out of work. Is there anybody who could get me a little night work so I could try and pay some of my bills? If some kind reader has any children's clothes I would be very thankful—an overcoat for a boy, size 8 or 9, and Winter underclothes, and clothes for a girl of six and a two-year-old baby. I hope and pray some kind reader will help me and say a prayer that my husband will get a job. If some one will only give me a little help, how happy I will be. MRS F. O'N.

Editor's Thanks

The editor wishes to thank the following for their generous offers of help. Mrs. B. D., for shoes to Mrs. H. M.; L. K. G., clothes for Mrs. B. J. R.; E. M. P., offers to A. B. W. and Mrs. C. V. M.; M. L., clothes for Mrs. H. M. D.; Mrs. B. B., mattress for Mrs. M.; Mrs. L. S., coat for Mrs. R. G.'s husband, books for A. F. D. and Mrs. T. McK.; address of Mrs. M. M. has been sent for offer of children's clothes; Mrs. C. A. W., pants for seventy-seven-year-old [illegible]; address of Mrs. L. M. S. has been sent for clothes for girl of twelve.

Kiddies Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there any kind person who has any clothes to give me, size 44 and shoes 5½ or 6? Also I would appreciate any dress to fit a girl of sixteen and dresses for girls of fourteen, ten and eleven or an overcoat and [illegible] for a boy of eight. I also need [illegible] for a baby I expect in November. I hope you can find a suit for a man, size 38, or shoes, size 8½ or 9. I have a coat and a few dresses I had [illegible] to me that would fit a girl nine, and if you send me the address of a person who can wear them I will send them to her. I also have a pair of nice sneakers, size 3 which I would be glad to send to somebody. MRS. J. W.

Has Coat for Vet

Editor Helping Hand.

Will you kindly give me the name of some ex-service man who needs a coat or so for Winter? My brother has given me an Oxford gray overcoat and mackinaw, size 18 years, to give to some worthy person. Also, will you give me the name of some little boy or girl about three years old, as I have a nice, new brown Winter coat I would give them? Keep up your good work. You certainly deserve credit in starting the Helping Hand.
MRS. F. T.

Many, many thanks. The credit for whatever of good is accomplished through this column is due to the kind acts of such helpers as Mrs. F. T.

Boy Needs Couch

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there any kind reader who has a couch or anything that a boy thirteen could sleep on? I can't afford to buy one, as I have many little ones to feed, and my husband can't work much, as he is sick on and off. There are nine in the family, and it is so hard to get anything we want, but I try to get along somehow. My husband has to have medicine all the time, so what comes in seems to go all for that and food. MRS. P. J. W.

Offers to Return Help

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if there is any of your readers who would help me a little, and as soon as things get a little better I will gladly help someone else. My husband has been working for ten dollars a week for two months, and had been out of work altogether for several months. I am twenty three years old and have been in poor health ever since my last baby was born. He is three years old, and I have another boy five, and in addition I expect another little life in a couple of months. I will more than appreciate anything in the way of clothes for these little ones, or for myself, size 38 or 40. MRS. R. C. R.

MILLIONS FOR PRIZE FIGHTS, MILLIONS STARVE

By Herbert Kaufman

THE most incredible phase of the news is the fact that any man can secure the better part of a million dollars for a brief exhibition of strength and dexterity

A similar remuneration, a Shakespeare, a Phidias, a Michael Angelo, a Sargent, a Caruso, a Daniel Webster, a Joseph Choate or a President of the United States would be considered outrageously overpaid for any service rendered in the same period

No brain or hand ever before earned so much as Dempsey's co-ordinated fist and mind within the space of forty-five minutes

A topsy-turvy world, gentles, witnesses the squandering of royal ransoms on a prize fight while nations suffer for food and raiment and a myriad Japanese remain desperate wards of universal charity

If, overnight, Spain had become a republic, or Mussolini opened war on Jugo-Slavia, or Stresemann accepted Poincare's terms, the tidings would prove of secondary interest to details of the human dreadnaught battle at the Polo Grounds

But since the fight is already dead history and its review is the province of greater experts than the writer, let's talk of pink-headed ducks and international crises, and prospects of regular coal supplies

Strange as it may seem to average readers, there are persons who would go much farther to see a pink-headed duck than watch the heavyweight championship decided

A party of returning and disappointed naturalists braved the most treacherous and miasmic jungles of India on just such a quest, only to find that the rarest of Asiatic fowls has joined the great auk and the dodo bird

If popular will continues to erupt, expeditions may soon seek as vainly for a reigning monarch

Except for fuel difficulties and more or less critical agricultural conditions, we are momentarily in fitter shape than at any time since 1914.

The United States Coal Commission, intent upon fortifying this stability, recommends special compulsory investigation "when the prospect of failure to renew agreements is imminent," so that the President may secure reports in time to intervene promptly with the situation.

Not until reasonable efforts are exhausted to insure closer and more harmonious dealings through pressure of public opinion and government intercession, should emergency strike powers "which Congress is asked to authorize" be invoked.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE DUTY OF SCIENCE

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

I WAS talking the other night with a speculative philosopher, some of whose ideas I have mentioned in a former article, about the prolongation of the span of human life, for which the life insurance companies are claiming great credit and from which they must derive much profit.

"That these companies should want to curtail mortality among the insured persons on their books," said he, "is perfectly understandable. And it might not be easy to find any individual, whether insured or uninsured, who would not welcome an extension of the life span for himself, and for his family and friends. But when the principle is applied to everybody, while the birth rate remains undiminished, the final results must be a crowding such as the world has never yet dreamed of.

"Only an increase of scientific knowledge can make such a state of affairs endurable. Science has produced the prolongation of life, but science cannot stop there, resting on its laurels, for now it must shoulder the burden of providing sustenance out of the natural resources of the earth for the hundreds of millions of additional mouths to be fed. Man is a very expensive animal for Nature to maintain.

"On its own [illegible] she cannot afford to keep him in very large numbers. Witness the scanty population of this country, even in its most fertile regions, in the days of the Indians. And the same applies to all parts of the earth in its ages of savagery and barbarism.

"Before the birth of modern science the population of Europe was relatively small. And whenever it rose above a certain moderate limit, famines and pestilences came to sweep off its surplusages. Human science gradually advancing has manipulated the revenues of the earth so that they now suffice to maintain this extravagant creature in vastly increased numbers.

"But let scientific knowledge fail and famine and plague would instantly stalk in to such a feast as was never yet set before them.

"Some persons," I remarked, "would not thank science for prolonging life, since they believe that this life is only a step toward a better one."

"Such persons," said he, "should rather consider that the foundations of the other life are laid in this one. I am not one of those who think that we come trailing clouds of glory from a preceding existence. But I believe that the birth of the individual spirit follows upon the body's birth, and is a consequence of the development of the body and especially of the brain."

HEROINES OF HISTORY

WORLD WONDERS AT HONORIA

By Mark Stuyvesant

IN the nineteenth century a little man caused Europe to tremble. In the fifth century another man of short stature terrified the world.

This man was short, but very strongly built. He had a flat head, wide-spreading nostrils and piercing eyes. But he was a great general and a fearless leader. He held his men in superstitious subjection. He was believed to be the possessor of the sword of the war god Mars. His kingdom extended from the Rhine to the borderland of China.

This short, yet majestic and imposing man, was known as "The Fear of the World" and the "Scourge of God." His name was Attila, the Hun.

At this time, living in Constantinople, was a young woman named Honoria. She was the daughter of Constantius III, and sister of the Roman Emperor Valentinian.

Valentinian ruled in Rome. It was there that his sister, the Princess Honoria, went to visit him

While on this visit, this audacious girl, being bored generally and wishing to free herself from the single life which she considered was so unfairly imposed upon her by her parents, thought of a method of escape. Attila! She would write a letter to Attila!

Honoria boldly sent her ring to Attila with her letter. In her letter she offered him her hand in marriage and openly invited him to claim her as his bride.

But it is known that, following the receipt of Honoria's letter and ring, Attila demanded a part of the Roman Empire as a dower of his possible bride. To this Valentinian objected

It was then that Attila crossed the Rhine and invaded Gaul.

Honoria's fate is unknown. There is no record of her later life and death. But the name of Honoria comes down through the ages as a heroine—not for any valiant or noble deed, but as the exciting cause of a great war.

Science Now Analyzes the Perfect Radio Voice

Astonishing Discovery of Why Some Obscure Singers, Whose Vocal Cords Give Sound Waves of Low Frequency, Rich in Overtones, Succeed Where Celebrated Songbirds Fail

WHAT constitutes the perfect "radio voice?" Why is it that some speaking voices carry perfectly by wireless, while others, equally clear when heard direct from the speaker's lips, lose this clarity when transmitted by radio?

And why is it that some singers who have marvelous success on opera or concert stage are less popular in radio concerts, while others, hitherto unheard of, build world-wide reputations by radio singing alone?

The interesting answer is put in exceedingly simple language by Kenneth Harkness, chief engineer of the Radio Guild, one of America's leading authorities on technical radio subjects.

In a word, it is this:

Voices which reproduce sound waves of low frequency and which are rich in overtones, carry better than voices which produce shriller, higher frequency waves and which lack overtones.

Mr. Harkness says:

"Lower frequencies carry and reproduce better than high ones, because the transformers of the receiving set amplify them more adequately.

"Low frequency voices also sound better, quite apart from a technical point of view. One reason for this is that the low voices are usually richer in overtones, and radio is unique in its ability to reproduce overtones perfectly.

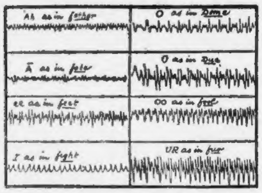
"Of course, with proper receiving apparatus, properly adjusted, radio can produce any sound, any voice, whether of high or low frequency, better than any other known device. But not all receiving sets are perfect, and it is simply a matter of which goes better on the average."

Now, just what do high frequency and low frequency mean, as applied to the voice? All who are expert radio "fans" and all who have technical knowledge of physics, will understand without further explanation, but the details will be interesting to readers who have not this scientific knowledge.

In the first place, sound is simply an air wave, a vibration in the air. When you speak or shout or sing, vibrations, waves, go out in the air very much in the same way waves, successive circles of ripples, go out when you throw a stone into a pond.

The time rate of these vibrations depends on whether the sound is high or low, whether it is shrill or deep. These sound waves themselves have nothing to do with electrical vibrations or with radio proper. That will be explained later. The sound waves, as compared with electric vibrations or light vibrations, are all exceedingly slow.

Bertha Brainard, Whose Low Pitched Voice Makes Her One of the Successful Women Radio Announcers and Story Tellers.



Photographs of Human Voice Sounds, as Transmitted by Radio.

Suppose an average sound wave is about 1,000 per second. A deep voice will cause slower vibrations, while a higher voice, as it becomes more and more shrill, will make the vibrations go faster and faster, until it produces vibrations like those of certain insects which are so shrill that the human ear cannot hear them at all.

These sound waves are thrown out by the actual vibration of some physical object, the vibrating cords, like harp-strings, in your larynx, the vibrating string when you play a violin, the vibrating metal when you strike a bell or gong.

Now how are these transmitted by radio? The technical scientific explanation is much too complicated to put in simple language, but baldly stated, the principle is this:

The radio transmitter sends out an electric wave or vibration. This is tremendously more rapid than a sound wave, and of a wholly different character. While the sound waves depend on the air, and go only at an average of, say, 1,000 per second, the electric vibration is wholly independent of air, and vibrates at the rate of perhaps 1,000,000 a second.

The sound wave, communicated as an actual vibration, to the transmitter, speaking in a loose sense, "rides" on the electric vibration, and when you pick up this electric vibration on your receiving apparatus, the discs of your receiver, which is like a telephone receiver, actually set up a mechanical vibration, which reproduces the sounds in terms of air waves. These in turn strike your ear drums and so you hear.

The real radio "fan," if he is an expert and a student, will laugh at the simplicity of this bald statement. But he must remember that it will interest readers who have not his technical knowledge, and that when any complicated scientific fact is put in simple language it must, of necessity, lose something in technical accuracy.

Now to go back to the perfect radio voice, the one of moderately low frequency and rich in overtones, and to give some examples. There are hundreds of perfect or almost perfect radio voices, among announcers, story tellers and singers, and each reader will have his own favorite.

One of the most interesting "perfect" voices, is that of Vaughn de Leath, known as the "original radio girl," who was the first woman in the United States, and hence in the world, to broadcast vocal music for the benefit of the general public. She was also the woman chosen for the first successful attempt to bridge the Atlantic Ocean with a woman's voice. She is connected with Station W. D. T., New York, and in addition to singing, will also do some announcing, since she has become program manager as well.

Most successful radio announcers and story tellers are men, as a man's voice generally is lower pitched than that of a woman. Another exception, however, is Bertha Brainard, successful and popular announcer for station W. J. Z.

Radio's Finest Singing Voice, According to Many Critics, Belongs to Miss Lilyan May Challenger, a Contralto Soloist of Lyndhurst, New Jersey.

Miss Vaughn de Leath, the "Original Radio Girl," the First Woman in the World to Broadcast Music for the Public.

Among the male announcers and radio talkers, perhaps the most popular at the present moment in the United States is Major J. Andrew White, who has reported for radio fans many of the recent big prize fights and boxing contests.

Among the singers, some of the most popular are opera and concert artists, already famous, while others of equal popularity have built almost their whole reputation by radio singing alone.

You will be interested to know that these radio voices can be seen as well as heard, though not with the human eye. They can be seen in photographs or drawings made from photographs. Dr. J. A. Fleming, F. R. S., explains how this is accomplished, in a recent article in one of America's leading technical radio publications:

"A wave in the air is a region of condensation, followed generally by one of rarefaction, and the compressed air acts to some extent like a lens on rays of light. Suppose, then, that we create a very sudden sound by means of the snap of an electric spark. This starts a sound wave which consists of a single region of compression followed by a region of expansion. This air wave can be allowed to flit across a sensitive photographic plate in a dark room."

By other processes, actual photographs and even line drawings have been made of the human voice, and of other musical sounds, some of which you see reproduced on this page in the form of waves.

So wonderful are the achievements of science that it is possible not only to define and explain the nature of the perfect "radio voice," but even to make pictures of the waves which produce sound when they strike your ear.

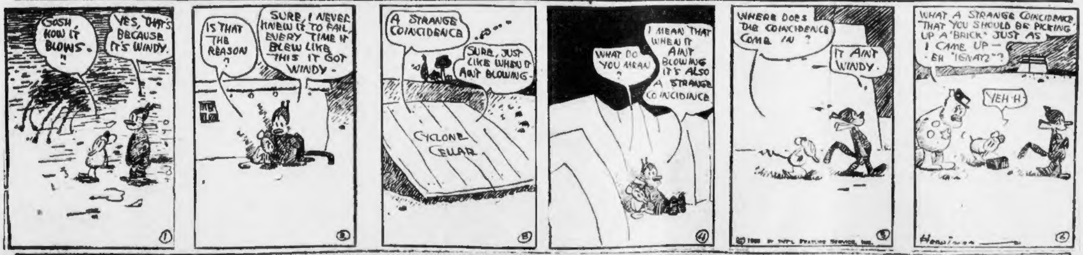
Blow, Brick, Blow

By Herriman



GOSH, HOW IT BLOWS.
YES, THAT'S BECAUSE IT'S WINDY.
①
IS THAT THE REASON ?
SURE, I NEVER KNEW IT TO FAIL, EVERY TIME IT BLEW LIKE THIS IT GOT WINDY - ②
A STRANGE COINCIDENCE
SURE, JUST LIKE WHEN IT AIN'T BLOWING -
CYCLONE CELLAR
③
WHAT DO YOU MEAN ?
I MEAN THAT WHEN IT AIN'T BLOWING IT'S ALSO A STRANGE COINCIDINCE

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A NEW YORK social worker says 90 per cent. of matrimonial scraps are started at the breakfast table. Most couples don't get up until 6 or 7 o'clock in the morning, and you can't expect them to begin fighting before that.

ONE man always ate his breakfast at 6.30 so that he'd have a couple of hours to battle with his wife before he went to work.

SOME couples wait until after they've eaten before they begin nagging each other, it's awfully hard to quarrel on an empty stomach.

BUT a full-fledged husband can battle just as well at 12 o'clock as he can at 7.

THE chances are he can fight better because he can think up more things to scrap about while he's lying in bed.

THEN when he decides on what he's going to quarrel over he gets up.

IF he runs out of things to battle about he goes back to bed again and thinks up some more.

SOME men can't bear to fight with their wives in the morning, that's why a lot of them never come home at night.

ONE guy was always so cranky when his wife tried to awaken him in the morning that she had to go down to the corner drug store and get him up by telephone.

THE average woman knows how her husband fights at the breakfast table and that's why she only serves him with mush, corn flakes or baked apples. If he gets mad and strikes her with any of these things he can't hurt her.

THE only sure way to avoid arguments at the table in the morning is to eat your breakfast before you go to bed at night.

TO LOST IS OFTEN A VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

What sort of loser are you?

When beaten in a contest what do you do?

Do you worry about it for several days and then do you forget it?

To lose is often valuable experience.

To set your loss down to "hard luck" merely, is poor policy if you want to turn your losses to account.
